Truman Plans Meat Seizure

By the Associated Press

The White House acknowledged today that government seizures in the meat industry are under consideration. There may be action today. Press Secretary Charles G. Ross, however, told newsmen a similar move in the steel industry was not yet being considered.

Facts Bill Goes To House With Vital Points Cut

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 (AP)

—The House Labor Committee today approved a modified version of President Truman's proposal for fact-finding boards to handle major industrial disputes.

The 10 to 8 vote came after the committee had rejected, 13 to 5, a motion to approve without change the legislation asked by Mr. Truman.

The measure accepted by the group was drafted by Rep. Landrum (R.) of Indiana. It would set up the fact-finding boards but would not give them the power to subpoena witnesses, books and records.

It also would eliminate a section banning strikes for 30 days while the boards deliberate.

Both the subpoena power and the "cooling off" period had been urged by the President.

18 More N. E. Steel Firms Sign

The New England sector of the nationwide steel strike front was crumbling today, with wage agreements between 18 firms and union leaders already announced and negotiations with six others nearing the settlement point. These represent nearly one-half of the 52 struck plants in the area.

The regional office of the United Steel Workers of America, CIO, announced that it is negotiating settlements with small, independent firms on the basis of wage increase of 18½ cents an hour recommended by President Truman.

Contracts have been signed, however, union officials said, providing for smaller increases with companies which have clearly shown inability to pay the higher rate.

Jack Hurvich, USWA field agent in the Boston area, said that a pattern for settlement was being established in this region that may leave only large steel corporations and their subsidiaries resisting the union demands.

Other officials at the Boston office busied themselves with arrangements for feeding pickets and providing relief for needy families of strikers.

Representatives of the Whittier Machine Works, Whittier, met union leaders in the State House today but made no progress toward settling the eight-day strike of 3500 workers, Gen. Charles

Gin Rummy Tickles Winnie

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 22 —Winston Churchill loves gin rummy—and he's good at it—But in his own words, "What an awful name for such delightful game!"

The British statesman made the comment last night as he be done," Ross said. "The matter of seizure has been under consideration."

But he emphasized this did "not refer to steel."

Although another government official said federal seizure of the meat industry was unavoidable, there were other reports the administration planned to offer some last minute new price increases to avoid taking over the struck plants.

Top government officials held a series of strike strategy conferences yesterday as the nation's biggest strike, the walkout of 750,000 CIO steelworkers, closing nearly 1300 plants, was getting under way.

While the meat fact-finding panel is being given every possible chance to mediate the wage dispute, sources close to the industry said the government's new price formula might involve a government commitment to purchase about 3,000,000 pounds of meat at an increase in price of 35 cents a hundred pounds.

The price of meat to civilian wholesalers, it was reported unofficially in Washington, also would be hiked 25 cents a hundred pounds as against a previous proposal of 12½ cents a hundred pounds.

The first effects of the paralyzing steel strike began to be felt as the biggest work stoppage closed steelmaking and fabricating plants and affected construction, railroads and public utilities.

The production dropped to less than 5 per cent of capacity, a 53-year low.

The number idle because of labor disputes jumped nearly 800,000, bringing the total number of workers away from jobs to 1,622,000, the highest since shortly after the end of World War I.

In Detroit, wage demands which precipitated the strike of 175,000 workers in General Motors plants two months ago were wick to 30 per cent increases.

The CIO United Auto Workers had set midnight as a deadline for acceptance by the corporation of a compromise proposal of 19½ cents an hour wage hike, as recommended by a fact-finding board. The deadline passed without GM comment.

The Detroit News said the Ford Motor Co. would offer the CIO United Auto Workers another wage increase soon, probably paralleling President Truman's 18½ cents hourly increase proposal in the steel dispute.

Ford denied the report, saying, "The rumor that the Ford Motor Co. will offer the UAW-CIO another wage proposal has no basis of fact. The company's position is still that the offer of 17½ cents is most substantial."

In New York threat of a city-wide transit strike—which would have halted virtually all transportation facilities—was removed after Mayor O'Dwyer agreed to a union demand that three subway powerhouses not be sold without a public referendum.

Electrical Strike Mediators Named

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 (AP) —Labor Secretary Schwellenbach today appointed two government mediators in the strike of 200,000 CIO electrical workers. They are William H. Davis, former chairman of the War Labor Board, and Arthur S. Meyer, chairman of the New York State Mediation Board.

They went into session this morning with officials of the strike-bound Westinghouse and General Electric Companies and the CIO United Electrical Workers.

UNO Faces Stiff Test In Red-British Dispute

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

LONDON, Jan. 22 (AP)—The explosive problems of Greece and Java were tossed into the lap of the United Nations Organization today by Soviet delegates, providing a full-scale test of the ability of the great powers to co-operate within the UNO.

PLANE VICTIM—A broken leg was suffered by WAG Lt. Bartie Roberts when the Army plane in which she was flying developed motor trouble near Philadelphia, forcing her to bail out in a parachute.

Jap Ship Hits Mine With 4279 Aboard

SHANGHAI, Jan. 22 (AP)—A Jap repatriation ship, holds jammed with 4279 home-bound Nationals, struck a mine today 60 miles off the mouth of the Yangtze and was reported sinking rapidly.

The U. S. Navy cargo ship, Brevard, radioed that it was standing by and taking off passengers and crew.

Referring to the Soviet action, British Prime Minister Attlee, answering questions in Commons, said today the British aimed only at an "amicable settlement" between the Dutch government and Indonesian nationalists in Java. He made no mention of Greece, which also has a British occupation force.

Soviet delegates earlier asked the Security Council to investigate and take measures against maintenance of British troops in Greece and Java.

UNO officials privately agreed Soviet charges against Britain, coupled with earlier charges made by Iran against Russia, had ended the honeymoon period of UNO.

American delegates were playing down talk of a crisis in the world peace agency, but it was apparent the organization was confronted with some of the toughest problems it could be asked to meet. Some Americans said privately the United States apparently was moving into a middle man position between Russia and Britain.

Complaints, filed with the security council accused Britain of endangering world peace and interfering with the internal affairs of Greece and Java.

Vandenberg Sees UNO Not Ready To Handle Crises

LONDON, Jan. 22 (INS)—Sen. Vandenberg said today he considers it "unfair and unfortunate" for UNO to be asked to solve the difficulties of small nations before it has developed mechanisms for dealing with such problems.

He said he specifically meant disputes over Iran, Greece and Indonesia, and added:

"The UNO Assembly is only 10 days old. The Security Council is only four days old. We don't yet have a secretariat. We don't yet have a court. We don't yet have contracts for the use of armed forces. We have no operating machinery whatever."

"It is equivalent to the situation Gen. Eisenhower would have confronted if he had been asked to invade France 20 minutes after we declared war."

"I certainly wouldn't call this a crisis. It is uncomfortable and undesirable, but don't get the idea there is a threat to the existence of the UNO."

"It is a crisis only in Fleet at terms—the same kind of a crisis we had about every six days at San Francisco."

if you call and no one answers, the record will tell you, there is no one here, but if you want to leave a message, it will be transcribed."

Telephone conversations can be recorded through use of the same device without knowledge of the person making the call,

Mother Sent To Sherborn, State Takes 7

Seven children, some so young they thought they could find warmth by sleeping on a bedspring and pulling the mattress over them, were in institutional custody today in Salem, while their 28-year-old mother was on her way to Sherborn, convicted of neglecting them, and officials were trying to find their father, a merchant mariner.

Mrs. Martin D'Entremont, who faced Judge George Sears in Salem District Court today at a private hearing, lost her children to state care Sunday night.

Neighbors called police to say they had heard the young ones crying day and night. They said something was amiss in the Derby st. tenement house.

Patrolman Ralph Fillagia investigated. He said he found the home unheated, several of the children sleeping on the springs of a bed, mattress-covered, the place filthy.

There, huddled, were Mary, 9; Jean, 8; Roland, 7; David, 4; Leonard, 3; Paul, 2; and Gloria, 11 months.

All the children were so vermin-infested their heads had to be shaved. Gloria was taken to the North Shore Babies' Hospital with David and Paul.

The clothing they had worn was beyond washing.

Police Lt. John J. Bates said Gloria was found in her crib, one leg stuck out in the freezing cold. Frozen ham and milk were found on the kitchen table, he added. He said the mother attended a dance Saturday night, leaving the children alone.

In the hospital with Gloria are Daniel and Paul. Dressed in hospital "Johnnies" this morning they went eagerly to work on warm cereal and hot milk.

Physicians at the hospital did some worrying about tiny Gloria. Dr. Harry M. Loud said it was malnutrition and exposure. He added: "She may have a hard time to pull through, but I think we can do it unless there are complications."

Police said the mother stated she "had nothing to work with." They said she told them she had "no good beds, blankets or sheets."

Catherine Greene, agent of the Child's Welfare Dept., said Mrs. D'Entremont had asked for help, that she had been accorded it during her husband's training in the Merchant Marine but it had been stopped after he became a seaman. She attested she learned he had been sending home $108 a month.

The future of the seven children is with the State. Their mother filed a waiver of summons in a civil case, charging neglect, which will be heard this week. As a result the court will find itself in a position to give the children into the care of the division of child guidance, the State Department of Public Welfare.

ABANDONED IN THEATER—Left in a Charlotte, N. C., movie theater by a "good looking" woman, this month-old baby is being held at Mercy Hospital, that city, while police seek her mother on abandonment charges. The woman allegedly was dressed in a red coat.

Girl, 18, Claims Hitler Her Dad

HERFORD, Germany, Jan. 22 (AP)—British authorities are holding an attractive 18-year-old girl, Gotelind Torsen, who asserts Hitler was her father.

During numerous interrogations since her arrest in the Magdeburg area she has insisted her mother was a Swedish actress who was Hitler's mistress in the late 1920's.

She said her mother and Hitler met frequently in Vienna and that her mother now is dead.

The girl is an ardent Nazi with a violent hatred for Americans and British. She is being held in an internment camp near Paderborn as a security suspect.

She asserts she was employed in the Reich chancellery as a secretary, that Hitler saw her every day and treated her affectionately as his daughter.

She was schooled, she said, in the Adolf Hitler school in the Tempelhof section of Berlin. She asserted when she was 14, she was told by Hitler in the presence of Hermann Goering and Heinrich Himmler, since a suicide, that Hitler was her father and she was "conceived by ordinary means."

Hitler was wounded in 1915. British Intelligence found evidence that following an operation for the wound in 1929, the German leader lost his procreative powers.

The Torsen girl said the association between Hitler and her mother was well known to high ranking Germans.

The girl said shortly before Berlin fell, she was sent to Magdeburg with dispatches for a Werewolf formation. She was in uniform and carried a pistol.

She was arrested for boasting openly she shot an American officer who tried to seduce her. The case never was proved.

She has been held because of her violent Nazi sympathies and also for thorough investigation regarding her story she is Hitler's daughter.

A British army psychiatrist said her general intelligence appeared to be about average but that in his opinion, her claim of being Hitler's daughter may be a "hysterical phenomenon with little or no truth or reality in it."

The room is filled with refuse. Clothes and food were on the floor. The sink was cluttered with unwashed and broken dishes.

Hub in Grip of Fish Black Mart

Harassed Boston housewives, seeking substitutes for fresh meat which is rapidly disappearing from stores, turned to fish markets today and were informed the protracted fishing dispute had resulted in a seafood shortage.

Thomas D. Rice, executive secretary of Massachusetts Fisheries Ass'n, said the average daily landings at Boston Fish Pier were far below the amount necessary to meet demand. He said arrivals today brought 89,000 pounds compared with the average of 200,000 pounds.

Large users such as hotels, restaurants and institutions are obtaining fish at black market prices two to three hundred percent above ceiling prices, according to Rice. Retailers are "just stuck," he said.

A dispute between fishermen and boat owners has tied up 31 trawlers of the Boston fleet for five weeks. Officials said there was little immediate prospect of a settlement. Only two trawlers and 14 dragners are operating out of Boston, Rice said.

Existing meat supplies were expected to be exhausted within the next four days. Even though the packing house workers' strike ended suddenly, at least two more weeks of famine would follow because of the time necessary to get meat from the ranch to Boston.

OPA Opens Meat Black Market Probe

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 (INS)—The Office of Price Administration today opened its investigation into black market meat operations by ordering a study of purchases and sales in 34 eastern cities.

OPA said it would investigate immediately the activities of 34 slaughterers as "part of its intensified drive to reduce black market sales of meat, now further aggravated by the work stoppage in the industry."

Curley Files Motion for New Trial

By FRANK REILLY

Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22—Motion for a new trial for Boston's Mayor James M. Curley, convicted last week of violation of mail fraud statutes, listing eight specific complaints, was filed today with the clerk of the federal district court by Atty. William E. Leahy.

Leahy's action followed a lengthy conference with Curley, who arrived from Boston today with his wife and daughter, Mary.

Under district court procedure, the motion must be answered by the government, but this is not expected for a week. Arguments will then be made by both sides on the motion.

The complaints listed in the motion are: 1, the verdict is against the evidence; 2, the verdict is against the weight of the evidence; 3, the verdict is contrary to law; 4, the verdict is contrary to the instructions of the court to the jury; 5, for errors in admission of evidence; 6, for errors committed in denial of prayers proffered by the defendant; 7, for errors committed in denial of motions for a mistrial, and 8, for other reasons which will appear on the hearing of the motion.

In the event the motion is denied after arguments are heard, sentence then would be imposed and defense counsel would be required to move for a stay of execution in order to appeal to the Appellate Court.

The mayor indicated he had plans regarding the city of Boston which he would handle during his present visit to Washington.

"I plan to confer with the Solid Fuels Administration and ask for more coal for Boston," he said. Accompanying the mayor and his family were Boston Municipal Court Judge Daniel J. Gillen and Com. John T. Murray.

Freed From Man 9 Times Wed

Mrs. Anne Coppinger, 39, of Highland ave., Needham, today was granted an annulment of her marriage to Roger L. Gardner, 36, now serving a Leavenworth Federal penitentiary term for posing as an FBI agent, by Judge James F. Reynolds in Dedham Probate Court.

A widow and mother of four children, Mrs. Coppinger charged Gardner posed as Graham W. Toman of the U. S. Dept. of Labor when she met him in 1943. She married him Dec. 21, 1943, believing him single.

Arrested in April, 1944, in connection with the murder of Mrs. Ora Murray in Los Angeles, Cal., Gardner's previous marriages were revealed, Mrs. Coppinger testified.

His trial for murder ended in a jury disagreement but federal authorities jailed him for three years on a charge of impersonating an FBI agent. A 10-year prison term for grand larceny awaits him in California.

Federal officials charged Gardner married nine times in four years without divorcing any of his wives.

for its own errors. In his first public testimony on the Jap sneak attack, the 1941 Hawaiian army commander told the Pearl Harbor committee:

"I do not feel that I have been treated fairly or with justice by the War Department. I was singled out as an example, as the scapegoat for the disaster."

The retired major general, silent for four years under a charge of dereliction of duty, joined Adm. Husband E. Kimmel in blaming Washington for withholding vital information from the Hawaiian commanders.

Short made these points in his defense:

1—Since Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, personally "supervised" the 1940 Hawaii alert, Short expected him to do so in 1941. Washington failed to "follow up" to see if Short understood his orders.

2—Like Kimmel, Short was denied information on Jap intentions obtained in Washington from decoded enemy messages. Later in the war, however, Washington risked exposing its code-cracking secret for the "light, temporary exaltation" of shooting down Jap Adm. Yamamoto's plane.

3—Short's decision to alert only against sabotage was "wrong," but he had "every reason to believe" his estimate agreed with that of the War Department.

4—Short lacked "adequate means" to defend against a surprise air attack. The War Department knew of the plane and antiaircraft deficiency.

5—Marshall's delayed Dec. 7 warning to Hawaii should have been sent by more than one means of communication. If phone was too risky for security reasons, then Washington should have issued the "necessary alert orders."

6—Adm. Kimmel's staff had assured him there was no danger of an air raid on Oahu. As a result, he viewed sabotage as the greatest threat and acted accordingly. Washington did not question this decision.

The general pointed out that Washington had nine days in which to express its disapproval of his reply to the War Department's Nov. 27 warning message. He said that, given Washington's information, he would not have erred in estimating the danger.

He argued: "If for any possible reason the War Department felt that it could not give me the information, then it was the responsibility of the War Department to direct me to go on an all-out alert, particularly since it was well known that we were on an anti-sabotage alert."

Lifting of Sunday Curfew Opposed

Sunday sports interfere with Sunday school and other youthful religious activities, declared opponents today to a bill seeking to permit baseball games to be played on Sunday until finished.

Rev. Samuel A. Jackson of Roxbury and Rev. F. Raymond Hampill of Cambridge, president and secretary of the Lord's Day League, urged that the legislative committee on mercantile affairs disapprove the measure.

City Councilor James C. Bayley, r. of Back Bay, sponsor of the bill, said the present 6:30 p. m. curfew "upsets pennant races in the major leagues by causing tie games to be called."

Greek Rebels Dispersing as 8 Are Slain

ATHENS, Jan. 22 (AP)—Government spokesmen said today a strong band of insurrectionist Monarchists, accused of defying orders to surrender by killing 8 of 150 hostages in southern Greece, appeared to be dispersing. The ministry of public order said only about 500 of the original force of 3000 remained in barricades of a village 10 miles from the seaport of Kalamai (Kalamata).

The revolt erupted Sunday when Royalists freed 32 suspects from Kalamai jail where they were held after slaying four supporters of the left-wing EAM (National Liberation Front).

These Days Become a Gambler

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

I HAVE JUST been cleaning up my income tax for the year 1945 and have reached the conclusion that I am in the wrong business.

Hard-working, ambitious, desirous of providing for my family, I should get out of this business and become either a black marketeer or a gambler on the stock market.

Unfortunately, I failed to pick the right parents and grandparents. Tommy Manville, Barbara Hutton and such people had more foresight.

They now live on inherited wealth which is not taxed until you die and then you don't need it because you can't take it with you.

But those of us who have to work for a living are up against the cold fact that the Government of the United States has reversed the history and traditions of this country by directing every official trend toward a lower standard of living for the people.

Even more, hard work, ambition, thrift are discouraged by the income tax, which makes it utterly futile for anyone to be diligent and places a terrible handicap upon the honest. Crooks Benefit

In fact, it is much sounder to be a crook, and the statistics of money out of circulation prove it.

In the year 1939, the total money of all kinds "in" circulation outside the Treasury and Federal Reserve banks was $7,598,000,000; in October, 1945, that figure had risen to $28,049,000,000.

That money is out of circulation. It is in safe deposit boxes, in shoe boxes, under mattresses, in o'd socks, anywhere that income tax inspectors are not likely to hit upon.

It is true that occasionally a hoarder is caught, but smart folks take a chance that they won't be found out.

House Votes El Airport Buses

Argentina Ready To Join UNRRA

LONDON, Jan. 22 (AP)—Argentina said today she was ready to join UNRRA and had already contributed 1 per cent of her national income in foodstuffs and other goods to the relief of war ravaged countries.

Argentina is one of five United Nations not in UNRRA.

Of course, if a man has moral strictures against being a black marketeer or engaging in other rackets, he might take his chances on the stock market, because if he holds his stock six months, he only pays 25 per cent on the gains and he may have saved something on his earned income. If he nets a loss or goes broke he pays nothing and he has had his fun.

The honest man hasn't a chance. A citizen who earns $10,000 over exemptions has to pay 41 cents on the dollar above that amount. That means that lawyers, doctors, dentists, public officials, small business men, junior executives and all such are stuck.

They cannot save a dollar unless they lower their standards of living. Caught between Chester Bowles' constantly rising ceiling prices and the income tax, they grow poorer every year, and it does not matter if they work harder and earn more. The more they earn, the more they pay.

If you go up the line, it is even worse. Anyone who earns more than $28,000 over exemptions pays 72 cents on the dollar for every dollar earned above that figure.

He might as well leave the sweat and toil and headaches to Mr. Vinson and not earn that much. I know from my own experiences that I do lots of things for 28 cents on the dollar that cannot be justified by the financial return. No use working if it brings nothing.

Hard on Thrift

This is particularly tough on writers. A man spends 20 years of hard living to get the knowledge and experience which he puts into a book. It sells. He is advertised as earning a fortune—all of which comes to him within a year. So he gets peanuts.

It is the same with radio and screen folks. And some of them only last a short time.

That is one reason why Joe Louis has to chase around the country with a band, trying to get the shekels to pay taxes for a few good years, and why nobody wants really to fight him for the championship.

The black marketeer and the Stock Exchange gambler and the man with a rich grandfather are the only ones who can beat the income tax racket.

The rest of us are just poor sumps. I announce now that I shall vote against my present Congressman unless he produces a substantial cut in my income tax bill. Do likewise, brother. It's votes that knock them dead.

VETERANS APPEAL TO PHILIP NICHOLS (CENTER) FOR ACTION IN HOUSING SHORTAGE
Present Bill to Legislators Asking for Aid in Finding Homes

INP by Lester MacLellan

Vets Beg State For Action on Housing Relief

Forty World War II veterans, several of them accompanied by their wives, pleaded with legislators today for immediate action to relieve a drastic housing shortage in Massachusetts.

Most of them declared they had become discouraged at tramping the streets in unsuccessful searches for apartments or houses. Some charged that available rentals or houses were denied them because they were veterans or because they had children.

In a conference in the office of Senate President Arthur W. Coolidge, in which Speaker Francis A. Willis and Philip Nichols, chairman of the State Housing Board, took part, they asked passage of legislation permitting cities and towns to accept quotas of housing units available from the government.

Under present laws, cities and towns do not have authority to accept these quotas and applications from communities must be filed by Feb. 1 or the state will forfeit its quota of such temporary housing units, estimated to be about 3500.

Later the group appeared before members of the legislative committee on mercantile affairs, who assured them that such a measure would be reported to the Legislature before the end of the week.

During the latter hearing Frank H. Townsend of the Cambridge Chamber of Commerce said his community was short 5000 living units because of the influx of servicemen during and since the war to study at Harvard and M. I. T.

Sen. Sumner G. Whittier of Everett, war veteran and member of the committee, said his family now was living in a home which was vacant for the winter while the owner was in California.

"I'm not sure whether in the next three months I'll even be living in my senatorial district," he said. "But the point to emphasize is the need for immediate action on the government offer to supply temporary living units."

Jail Sentence for 2 In Lynn Attack Case

Voicing the suspicion one of the defendants might have committed similar crimes previously, Judge Felix Forte in Salem Superior Court today found two youthful magazine salesmen guilty in connection with an assault on a young Lynn housewife in her home.

Maurice J. Jeanneau, 21, of Montreal, Canada, was sentenced to State Prison for three to six years for assault with criminal intent on Mrs. Bertha Sipe, 20, of Murphy ave., Lynn.

Robert L. Liebl, 18, of New York, was given a suspended jail term of one year and probation for two years for assault and battery.

Judge Forte said their presence in the vicinity led to the suspicion in his mind that Jeanneau might have attacked other women without fear of punishment because the victims made no outcry.

Mrs. Sipe testified at the jury-waived session the two entered her home on the pretense of selling magazines. She said one held her while the other attacked her in her bedroom.

Barnes Urges Eviction Curb

Legislation proposed by Atty. Gen. Clarence A. Barnes to delay eviction of tenants as long as three months was described to the legislative judiciary committee today as a measure which would halt evictions in the present winter months.

Asst. Atty.-Gen. Joel L. Miller said that in the next few months there might be relief in the serious housing shortage and that extension of the period before a tenant could be evicted might prevent serious hardship.

Rep. Charles J. Artesani, of Brighton, favored a similar measure in which evictions would be delayed for as long as six months.

Atty. Louis G. Loeb, who has handled a number of veteran eviction cases favored extending the legislation beyond Oct. 1, 1947, the date the Barnes measure would cease to operate.

Ardent Wooer Put Under Bond

Some men take a lot of convincing when it comes to being cast off by girl friends, and Placido Gioco, 28, of Auburn st., West End, was pictured in municipal court today as one of the most persistent of suitors.

"We broke up last September and since then he's been after me, beating me, causing me to lose my job, taking money from me and even threatening to kill me," his one-time girl friend, Miss Anne Jeffrey, 25, of Elm Botolph st., Back Bay, testified.

She said she gave Gioco money in the hope he would leave Boston because "I want nothing more to do with him."

Mrs. Joan Warnell, with whom Miss Jeffrey lives, charged that Gioco threatened to kill her when she refused to let him into the apartment.

Judge Elias Shamon, commenting that "faint heart ne'er won fair lady," said Gioco was "too ardent" and found him guilty of annoying Miss Jeffrey and threatening Mrs. Warnell.

He ordered Gioco to post $200 bond to keep the peace for six months and continued the case until tomorrow.

2 Held on Girl Slave Charge

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 22 (INS)—Accused by a beautiful girl of holding her captive in a swank mansion, two 36-year-old men today were held on charges resulting from what sheriff's deputies said was the operation of a white slave ring in central California.

Lon R. Gamble, named by the girl as the man who enticed her into the sumptuous two-swimming-pool dwelling at Newhall, Cal., was arraigned on one count of assault by means of a drug and one count of assault with a deadly weapon.

Arrested with him when Sheriff's investigators raided the house was Edward Harman Clark, arraigned on three counts of vagrancy.

At the arraignment police revealed that the girl held captive is Miss Jane Cooney, 22, of Los Angeles.

She was reported in seclusion under care of a physician.

She was said by police to be the daughter of a wealthy New Jersey industrialist.

Police said operations of the ring, in which hundreds of young girls were believed and were uncovered after Miss Cooney wrote a letter to a friend describing her plight.

She gave the letter to a butler who, instead of following her instructions to mail it, took the envelope to the next-door home of Judge Arthur C. Miller, Newhall justice of the peace.

This description of the events which led to her asserted captivity was written by the girl: "Lon contacted me in Hollywood and took me to Newhall for a party. I had a few drinks and Lon gave me a tablet. What it was I don't know but it made me a little groggy."

"Then we had a little argument. He was furious."

"He came out from behind the bars and slapped me, beat me, kicked me on the floor, pushed me into the bedroom."

"The last thing I remember was lying on the bed, then I went unconscious. When I came to I got a glimpse of my face in the mirror and screamed."

Deputies said operators of the alleged ring contacted young girls stranded in Hollywood without jobs at the end of the war.

The girls would be enticed to the house, attacked and later offered jobs as prostitutes.

UNO Group Visits Famous Prince Estate

The UNO site-inspection delegation spent its last official day in Massachusetts today in a survey of a 54-mile-square section of the North Shore, covering some 18 communities.

First stop was at "Princemere," rambling 344-acre estate of Frederick H. Prince, which has been offered as an outright gift to the UNO by the millionaire.

Francois Briere, French member, expressed particular interest in a life-size portrait of Lt. Norman Prince, the owner's son who lost his life with the Lafayette Escadrille in World War I.

"His memory is very dear to us," Briere said.

In addition to a huge 38-room mansion of stone, the estate, which covers portions of Beverly, Wenham, Hamilton and Manchester, also has two polo fields, five ponds and a large swimming pool.

The committee rejected the Prince proposal to give the estate outright, saying they were prohibited from accepting gifts. They also turned down a proposal that North Shore communities be used as interim headquarters, saying the estates were "too scattered."

The group was conducted by Miss Dora L. Edwards of Beverly, official representative of Prince, who is wintering in Aiken, S. C.

They lunched at the Myopia Hunt Club and planned to spend the afternoon visiting other sites, including areas around Gloucester, Topsfield, Boxford, Georgetown, Middleton, West Newbury, Andover and North Andover.

The North Shore trip, postponed from yesterday because of the storm, got off to an early start with delegates commenting on the excellent condition of the roads, which had been well plowed and sanded.

After returning late today, they will entrain for Providence and will stay at Hotel Biltmore there while surveying sites in Rhode Island.

Ammunition Blast Kills 10 in Italy

Legion Asks Probe of U. S. Sales to Vets

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 (AP)—The American Legion said today it had found "impossible obstacles" in the way of veterans seeking to buy surplus government property.

Ralph H. Lavers, director of the employment division, said a cross-country tour indicated there "is a lack of organization in disposal of surplus property" to veterans, for whom Congress provided purchasing priorities.

"Too many agencies continue to be involved, such as the RFC, the Smaller War Plants Corp. and the maritime and military establishments," Lavers said, adding that one agency should handle the business.

He asserted the Legion would seek legislation to eliminate some of the difficulties.

Lavers' statement came after Rep. Clason (R.) of Massachusetts told the House 500 Springfield, Mass., veterans had been issued certificates for vehicles but for more than three months the RFC had failed to act.

Clason disclosed that RFC officials in Washington assured him they would investigate the complaint.

As an example of the "tossing around" given veterans, Clason read into the record a letter from American Legion Post 277, Indian Orchard, Mass., contending the Smaller War Plants Corp. office at Springfield had approved sale of surplus army trucks to their members. In turn the veterans went to Fort Devens and selected their trucks. But they were informed the RFC regional office at Boston had to clear the sale. The Boston regional office, they complained, declared the SWPC had no authority to approve the trucks.

"The result is there has been no sale of surplus trucks since Oct. 12, 1945," Clason said.

N. E. Council Will Meet Friday

Present problems of housing, traffic and parking in New England will be discussed by regional and national authorities with leaders of the six states at the New England Council's second annual community conference at Hotel Statler Friday.

In the housing session, problems of providing emergency shelter, breaking of the bottleneck in residential construction and the effect of long range housing projects on the current shortage will be discussed.

Relief of traffic congestion in urban communities and the problem of whether parking facilities should be provided by the cities or private lot operators will be discussed in the traffic and parking session.

600 GI Wives, 60 Babies Start London-U. S. Trek

By BARBARA WACE

LONDON, Jan. 22 (AP)—The big adventure of moving to new homes in the United States began today for 600 British wives of American soldiers. Packed aboard a crowded train in Waterloo Station, 200 started their long journey a few minutes before noon.

They were to be followed this afternoon by 400 more. All will sail on the liner Argentina Saturday.

Sixty had children with them. There was a cloud of waving handkerchiefs as the train pulled out of the gloomy station into London's fog, en route to an Army processing station at Tidworth, near Southampton.

Relatives crowded the station. There were tears, but more smiles. Gray women of the London Women's Volunteer Service gave hot tea to the happy wives and toys and milk to the babies.

The wives—wary of too few clothes, too little warmth and a too monotonous diet featuring Brussels sprouts and potatoes—found a typical spokesman in Mrs. Peggy Stewart. Her husband, a steelworker in Toledo, O., is former Air Force Cpl. Raymond Stewart.

"I certainly don't want to spend the rest of my life in this country," she said. "My husband told me a lot about America and I'm sure I'll like it there."

Mrs. Stewart's parents were killed in a raid. Her aunt saw her off at the train and commented: "This will give her a chance to make a new start."

The Most Important Period in 100 Years—Ahead!

We have ahead of us in this country probably the most important period in 100 years... a "Good Times" era.

This period will witness a great industrial boom that will sweep us on to a higher standard of living than we have yet experienced. World trade will revive. New products will appear in abundance. Venture capital will come out of hiding.

Corporate profits will rise to new peaks. Dividends will advance more sharply. Money rates will remain low.

All of this makes for a strong stock market. Indeed, we may witness buying and selling of securities on a scale that has not been approached since the days of "roaming margin accounts."

'Beat Hell' Out Of GI Camp Men

LONDON, Jan. 22 (AP)—A defendant in the Lichfield court-martial testified today guards at the U. S. Army detention camp were instructed to "beat hell" out of prisoners who had been detained there previously.

Cpl. Ellis D. Adcock of Hot Springs, Ark., one of nine enlisted men and two officers charged with cruelty to American soldier prisoners, told the court repeaters were "beaten from five to 20 minutes, until they could not get up from the floor, even though they were helped."

Describing other disciplinary measures, Adcock said he had made one prisoner stand with his toes and nose to a wall from 9 a. m. until 6:30 p. m., "on instructions."

Hub GI Ship Safe After Aid Appeal

The troopship Frederick C. Hicks radiated today she was out of danger and proceeding to Boston at normal speed after her earlier distress calls had diverted the Nazi prize cruiser Prinz Eugen from her course to Boston in a rescue effort.

The Hicks, a Liberty ship bound to Boston from Liverpool with five Army officers, 14 enlisted men and a War Shipping Administration official aboard, first radiated a distress call from 280 miles southeast of Halifax.

She reported a crack in her hull, extending from the deck coming to below the tween deck on her port side, was "gradually spreading" and that she was caught in "extremely rough seas."

The Prinz Eugen, due in Boston and manned by a German crew under 85 U. S. naval officers, was diverted from her course to go to the rescue, but resumed her journey to this port after the Hicks radiated she was proceeding to Boston at normal speed.

The Prinz Eugen was scheduled to arrive at Graves light at noon tomorrow, to be escorted up the harbor to her berth at South Boston Navy Yard Annex about 1:30 p. m. with planes from the Quonset Naval Air Station roaring overhead.

confronted him today on Capitol

Hill that if all fathers were discharged from the Army "there will be no Army."

A score of women, representing units of the Servicemen's Wives and Children's Ass'n, met the chief of staff outside the office of

Chairman May (D.) of Kentucky

as he arrived to explain demobiliza-tion policy to the House Military committee.

They told him bluntly they wanted to talk to him and followed him into May's small office in the House office building.

Backed into a corner against a window, the five-star general tried for a few minutes to answer assorted questions fired at him simultaneously by almost all of the women.

May finally insisted that one of them do the talking and Mrs.

Dorothy Galomb of Wilkesburg,

Pa., secretary of the group, was designated as spokesman.

She said flatly that mothers whose husbands are in service are dissatisfied with demobilization procedure and claimed that one out of every three marriages is ending in divorce, with service families involved in most of them.

Declaring that mothers, while trusting their husbands, look with alarm at pictures of fraterniza-tion of servicemen overseas, she asked Eisenhower:

"How do you think we mothers feel? Marriage won't stand this isolation."

Eisenhower, when he got a chance to get in a few words, told the women there are about 700,000 fathers in the Army and everything is being done to get them out in an orderly manner as rapidly as possible.

Eisenhower said replacements are being obtained and trained as the delegation he would personally handle any formal program they submitted.

Nazi Looting Killed 150,000

NUERNBERG, Jan. 22 (AP)—A French prosecutor charged today that a starvation diet and privations resulting from Nazi looting had caused the death of at least 150,000 Frenchmen, contributed to thousands of other deaths and undermined the nation's health for years to come.

The Frenchman, Charles Gerthoffer, told the international military tribunal trying 22 leading Nazis that the crime of starving entire populations "is not less odious" than those of deportations, murders and massacres.

Gouin Will Take De Gaulle Job

PARIS, Jan. 22 (AP)—Felix Gouin, Socialist president of the constituent assembly, said today he would accept a nomination to be a candidate to succeed Gen. De Gaulle as president, possibly solving France's government crisis.

His action cleared the way for a possible quick agreement of the three major parties on a new government, although the Socialists parliamentary group just previously had decided to back Vincent Auriol as their candidate instead of Gouin.

The Communists already had proposed Gouin for the presidency after dropping their own candidate, Maurice Thorez.

Support by the popular Republicans, third large party in the assembly, for Gouin was regarded as a foregone conclusion for he previously had been put forward by the Communists as a candidate "above parties."

Agreement upon Gouin previously had been blocked by his reluctance to be a candidate.

Marshall, Chiang In Truce Parley

CHUNGKING, Jan. 22 (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall conferred with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek today for an hour. It was believed they discussed means of ending violations of the truce in China's civil strife.

Meanwhile, the armistice commission at Peiping directed opposing troops to withdraw promptly at least 20 miles from points of contact.

Stories of truce violations continued to deluge headquarters, as American Army and Marine planes scattered cease-fire leaflets throughout five provinces of North and Central China.

Eugene M. McSweeney Rites Scheduled Thursday

Funeral services for Eugene M. McSweeney, 66, former Boston police commissioner and former state commissioner of public safety, will be held Thursday at 9 a.m. at Holy Name Church, West Roxbury, with burial in Immaculate Conception Cemetery, Marlboro.

His death climaxed a long illness.

Prominent in the newspaper and advertising business, for many years, he at one time was circulation manager of the Boston American and later assistant publisher of the Daily Record and Sunday Advertiser.

He first appeared in public life when he was appointed a member of the sinking fund commission by Mayor Curley. In October, 1933, he was appointed fire commissioner by Mayor Curley to fill out the unexpired term of Edward F. McLaughlin, who had resigned.

In February, 1935, he was appointed police commissioner. Following his ouster by Gov. Curley in 1937 over department policy, he was appointed a member of the Mass. development and industrial commission by Gov. Hurley.

McSweeney was appointed public safety commissioner by Gov. Hurley in December, 1937, and served in this capacity until illness forced him to retire.

He is survived by his widow, Margaret M., 25 Chilton rd., West Roxbury, his sons, Eugene M., Jr., and Ens. John M. McSweeney and a daughter, Mrs. Paul E. Reed.

THE NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL ROUTE OF THE FLAGSHIP

A Letter to the President of the United States

January 18, 1946.

Hon. Harry S. Truman
President of the United States
The White House
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. President:

Your proposal to me in Washington last evening that the wage demand of the United Steelworkers of America-CIO be settled on the basis of a wage increase of 18½ cents an hour, retroactive to January 1, 1946, cannot, I regret to say, be accepted by the United States Steel Corporation for the reasons set forth below.

As you must be aware, your proposal is almost equivalent to granting in full the Union's revised demand of a wage increase of 19½ cents an hour, which was advanced by Philip Murray, the President of the Union, at our collective bargaining conference with the Union in New York a week ago today. In our opinion, there is no just basis from any point of view for a wage increase to our steel workers of the large size you have proposed, which, if put into effect, is certain to result in great financial harm not only to this Corporation but also to users of steel in general.

As I have tried to make clear to you and other Government officials during our conferences in Washington over the past few days, there is a limit in the extent to which the Union wage demands can be met by us. We reached that limit when we raised our offer to the Union last Friday from a wage increase of 12¼ cents an hour to one of 15 cents an hour. This would constitute the highest single wage increase ever made by our steel-making subsidiaries. Our offer of 15 cents was equivalent to meeting 60% of the Union's original excessive demand of a $2 a day general wage increase. Our offer met 75% of the Union's final proposal of a wage increase of 19½ cents an hour. A wage increase of 15 cents an hour, such as we offered, would increase the direct labor costs of our manufacturing subsidiaries by approximately $60,000,000 a year. That is a most substantial sum, and does not take into account the higher costs we shall have to pay for purchased goods and services, when large wage increases generally become effective throughout American industry, as is inevitable after a substantial increase in steel wages.

As you know, collective bargaining negotiations with the Union broke down at the White House yesterday afternoon, because Mr. Murray then refused to budge from his position that a country-wide steel strike must take place, unless steel workers are granted a general wage increase of 19½ cents an hour. Our offer of a wage increase of 15 cents an hour was again rejected by the Union.

The Union threatened to go ahead with its program for a national steel strike at midnight next Sunday, although such a strike will be a clear violation of the no-strike provision contained in our labor contracts with the Union, which continue by their terms until October 15, 1946.

From the outset, we have recognized how injurious a steel strike will be to reconversion and to the economy of this whole country. Most industries are dependent upon a supply of steel for their continued operations. We have done everything reasonably within our power to avert such a strike. If a strike occurs, the responsibility rests with the Union.

When the Government at the eleventh hour informed us about a week ago of its willingness to sanction an increase in steel ceiling prices, we at once resumed collective bargaining negotiations with the Union. Such price action by the Government was a recognition by it of the right of the steel industry to receive price relief because of past heavy increases in costs, something which the steel industry for many months has unsuccessfully sought to establish with OPA.

I should like again to point out some pertinent facts relative to the wages of our steel workers.

Since January, 1941, the average straight-time hourly pay, without overtime, of our steel workers has increased more than the 33% increase in the cost of living during that period, recently computed by Government authorities. Steel workers' wages have kept pace with increased living costs. Such average straight-time pay in our steel-producing subsidiaries was $1.14 an hour in each of the months of September, October and November, 1945, excluding any overtime premium and any amount for correction of possible wage inequities. An increase of 15 cents, in accordance with our offer, would raise such average straight-time pay to $1.29 an hour, placing such pay among the highest today in all of American industry.

Under an offer of a 15 cent increase, the average weekly take-home pay of our steel workers for a forty-hour week would amount to $51.60, assuming that no overtime is involved. This figure is only $1.51 less than the actual average weekly earnings of these employees, including overtime, in the last full war year of 1944, on the average work week was 46 hours. The difference is really less because we will undoubtedly continue to have overtime in the future, just as we have at the present time. In November, 1945, overtime premiums on our steel workers aggregated more than $1,300,000. Such reduction of $1.51 in weekly take-home pay is a natural consequence of a shorter work week of 40 hours, and therefore of lower production.

Much as we desire to avoid a steel strike, we cannot overlook the effect both on this Corporation and on our customers and American business in general, of the 18½ cent an hour wage increase, which you have proposed. Such a wage increase must result in higher prices for steel than have previously been proposed to us by the Government. Great financial harm would soon follow for all users of steel who would be obliged to pay higher prices for their steel, higher wages to their employees, and still have the prices for their own products subject to OPA control. Such a high and unjustified wage scale might well spell financial disaster for many of the smaller steel companies and for a large number of steel fabricators and processors. The nation needs the output of these companies. Increased wages and increased prices which force companies out of business can only result in irreparable damage to the American people.

In our judgment, it is distinctly in the public interest to take into account the injurious effect upon American industry of an unjustified wage increase in the steel industry.

After a full and careful consideration of your proposal, we have reached the conclusion above stated.

Respectfully yours,

Benjamin F. Fairless,

President, United States Steel Corporation

Town Manager Plan Called Red

A bill proposed by Republican House Speaker Frederick B. Willis to allow Massachusetts towns to adopt town-manager governments was supported as democratic and assailed as communistic today.

Willis pointed to Cambridge as an example of improved government under city management.

While Daniel Tyler, a Brookline selectman, said it would be democratic to give the citizens a chance to choose this form of government, Sen. Donald W. Nicholson (R.) of Warham voiced opposition.

"Proportional representation," he said, "is communistic because it gets minorities elected."

Speaker Willis told the legislative committee on towns he wished to impress on members that his bill was "permissive" and would not become law until adopted.

Steel Says It Met Union Half Way

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (AP)—Benjamin F. Fairless, president of the United States Steel Corp., said today the industry met the United States Steel Workers "more than half way" in wage negotiations and "responsibility for the strike rests with the union."

He told reporters: "Our offer of a wage increase of 15 cents an hour met 75 per cent of the unions proposal. He added the increase would have cost the corporation $80,000,000 annually.

Strikes

H. Cole, state chairman of arbitration and conciliation, announced.

Cole said the strike of 125 drivers of the Berkshire Street Railway in Pittsfield was expected to end tomorrow. He said union delegates accepted a 13-cent hourly increase offered by the company, raising operator's pay from 85 to 98 cents. Approval of the offer by the drivers was the only obstacle, he said.

Other negotiations scheduled today were between union officials and the Crosby Steam Gauge & Valve Co., Charlestown; Walworth Co., South Boston; and the Zaiger Corp., Lynn. The union and the American Brake Shoe Co. of Norwood will meet at the offices of the U. S. Conciliation Service.

Meanwhile, the Textile Workers' Union of America, 110, voted to strike Feb. 1 at 29 woolen mills in this region unless their wage demands were met.

John Chupka, TWUA woolen and worsted director, said conferences were continuing with the 29 mills and 39 other woolen mills. He said 27 mills had agreed to union requests, 20 of them operated by the American Woolen Company.

End of the six-day strike of more than 1000 Vermont granite workers came with the announcement of a labor-management agreement on a new wage scale.

New England plants of Sylvania Electric Products will receive immediate wage increases from 10 to 14 per cent, it was announced at Salem. The other plants of the company are at Danvers, Ipswich, Lowell and Dover, N. H.

The strike threatened for Friday of 60 firemen and engineers in 25 tanneries at Peabody, Salem and Danvers, which would throw 2000 leather workers out of work, will be discussed further tonight by union officials. Union and management failed to reach an agreement at last night's conference at Hotel Hawthorne, Salem.

Truman Names Security Board

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 (INS)—President Truman today set up a four-man National Intelligence Authority to assemble and evaluate all information relating to national security.

The President, naming the secretaries of State, War and Navy, and a personal presidential representative, directed that the board set up a central intelligence group to function "outside the United States and its possessions."

Mr. Truman said the group would not exercise police or internal security functions.

Aiming at a goal of $1,901,150, some 30,000 volunteers will begin a house-to-house drive March 1 when the 1946 Greater Boston Red Cross campaign gets under way, it was announced today.

The national goal is $100,000,000.

40 MPH Limit Urged by Copell

Speed limits should be based on accident records and physical features of highways, rather than on a purely arbitrary figure, Edgar F. Copell, traffic engineer of the State Highway Department of Public Works, told the legislative committee on highways and motor vehicles today.

He said present speed laws were "outmoded."

Copell favored a 40-mile-an-hour limit on open roads, 20 to 30 miles in thickly settled areas.

Girl Band Saved In Japan Crash

YOKOHAMA, Jan. 22 (AP)—Sharon Rogers and her 16-girl orchestra were rescued from the sea by Jap fishermen today after a transport plane crashed off the southern tip of Kyushu while they were returning to Japan from Korea.

Everyone was saved, but an unnamed drummer suffered a fractured leg and the others were bruised. The plane struck the water about 50 feet from an ammunition barge and sank within 12 minutes.

"The coolness of the pilot saved us all from death," said Miss Rogers, whose dance band just concluded a three-month tour of Korea and Japan. It was returning to board a ship for the United States.

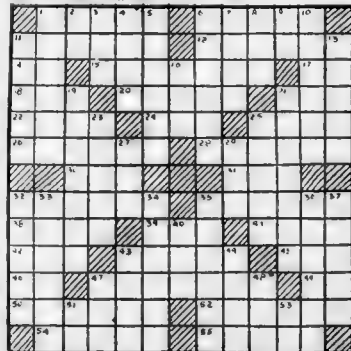

Purge of Old Guard Hits 53 Jap Officials

TOKYO, Jan. 22 (AP)—The purge of Japan's governmental Old Guard, ordered by Gen. MacArthur, continued this week as more than 20 prefectural governors and 33 top members of the home ministry resigned.

The Tokyo newspaper Asahi reported the resignations and said Chuzo Mitsuoki, new home minister, would appoint civilians whose political records are unblemished. All will be less than 60 years of age.

Fitting Hat Traps Hubby Wife Sues

Thomas C. McGrath, 37, of Claybourne st., Dorchester, had a head that fitted a hat in municipal court today and it cost him a one-month suspended sentence by the first judge, Joseph E. Donovan.

Then McGrath and his estranged wife, Valia, who went to law against him, moved into the courtroom of Judge Jennie Lottman Barron, who gave him another month, plus probation of two years.

Before Judge Donovan he was charged with stealing his wife's handbag, eyeglasses and $17, in addition to hitting her.

The jurist found a man could not steal from his own wife, but McCarthy had to take the rap for punching her.

McGrath couldn't seem to remember visiting her Allen st., West End apartment and swinging, nor could he remember that he had plugged him with her handbag, knocking off his hat, until it was produced in court and fit him.

Judge Lottman found him guilty of threatening his wife. He told both judges, he still loved her.

She told them she didn't love him and is suing for divorce.

through the roof," he said, "but never the 'big stick,' and that's my ambition now."

He's a gourmet and wine fancier, member of Le Club des Arts Gastronomiques of Boston. Many a Back Bay hostess has seen him fly off from dinner, in white tie and tails, to chase a three-alarm fire.

An internationally known sportman since his Harvard days, he still goes from his Marlborough st. home several times a week to row on the Charles, no matter what the weather. Ice is the only thing that stops him.

Most sparks, firemen say, are a nuisance at a fire, but they admit Codman knows as much about loading a hose as any other fire chief.

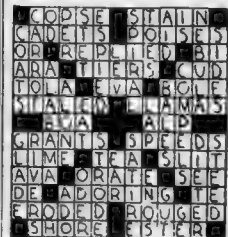

His first professional interest in fires was when Teddy Glynn appointed him investigator of special fire hazards, a post he held through the Hultman regime.

A member of the Fire Prevention Committee, he was also appointed by Gov. Allen in 1929 to a five-man recess commission to draft Chapter 148 in the state laws, to complete fire prevention laws for Massachusetts. He is also a member of the International Fire Chiefs' Ass'n.

Codman has traveled over Europe and the Far East as wine consultant for S. S. Pierce Co., and interrupted his college career to become one of the youngest American soldiers in the Mexican border campaign.

A stickler for discipline, the new commissioner has told his staff he will require regular drills and inspections at the firehouses

TOO HAZY

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S assurance that the United States, while supporting the principle of international trusteeships for the control of former enemy territories, will ask for exclusive American control of Pacific islands essential to American defense has "too many loopholes" for the peace of mind of the American people—as Senator Bridges of New Hampshire has been quick to observe.

What the United States may ask from the United Nations Organization in this respect and what it would GET might be two entirely different things.

The United States has only a minority voice at best in the United Nations Organization, and a very SMALL voice when it stands alone.

Once the right of final decision is yielded to the United Nations Organization, the respect of the United States getting what it asks and wants and needs becomes problematical.

In the case of the exclusive trusteeships sought in the Pacific, it becomes a very dim prospect indeed.

SENATOR BRIDGES is perfectly right in objecting that the President's statement on the Pacific islands is "too general, too hedged and too hazy."

These islands are too vitally important to the future peace and security of the United States to be placed in the hands of the United Nations Organization for decision as to their control.

Moreover, as Senator Bridges succinctly suggests, it is a very peculiar thing that only the Pacific territories WE want and need for OUR peace and security are to be turned over to the United Nations Organization for assignment of international trusteeships.

"Russia has been granted OUTRIGHT POSSESSION of the Japanese Kurile archipelago," says the New Hampshire Senator, "and there was no mention of mixed trusteeships in the return of Hong-kong to Britain."

"We consented to PERPETUAL SOVIET SOVEREIGNTY over the Kuriles in our surprised delight that Russia had consented to American administration of Japan proper."

"Then, inevitably, Russia moved later for a part in governing Japan, and we yielded that, too."

THE UNITED STATES should move promptly and on its own initiative and authority and decision to TAKE what it wants and needs in the Pacific, as Russia did—and the longer we delay about this the LESS there will be to take.

But the United States is not moving promptly and in fact is not moving at all, either in this or even more important matters.

Not only in the case of the former Japanese islands in the Pacific, but also in the adequate defense of our own American possessions is the United States neglecting its own vital interests.

These are matters too essential TO AMERICA for any other interests to be consulted except our own AMERICAN interests.

And the President of the United States should concern himself EXCLUSIVELY with American interests.

NOT POPULAR

IN SPITE of the good intentions which have inspired them, the various bills proposing city and town managers for Massachusetts municipalities are likely to receive a chilly reception in this session of the Legislature.

Too fresh in the public memory is the spectacle of Plan E Cambridge's farcical election in which more than 300 ballots were cast before a mayor could be chosen.

Moreover, thousands of citizens will ask such questions as:

"If the town manager form of government is ideal, why is it that only four towns out of three hundred and twelve have accepted it?"

"Why did the town of Orange drop it? And why did the town of Easton decide that it did not want it?"

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS:

Q—Did you find out what popular song included the line "I just can't make my feelin' behave"? A—It is from a number called "The Wild Cherry Rag," that was popular about 30 years ago. Q—How many cakes do you claim should be in a stack of hotcakes? A—Six.

Restaurant efficiency men have cut the stack to three but that is no reason why you should accept such an undersized stack in your own home. . . . Q—Claim the game of poker originated in France. This, my wife, another of those argumentative redheads, disputes. She says it is of American origin. A—Poker originated in Persia. Was introduced to the United States by French settlers of Louisiana.

Q—How about World War II poetry? Was there any written that might be classed with such World War I masterpieces as McRae's "Flanders Field" and Joyce Kilmer's "Rough Boquet"? A—Believe "The Soldier's Prayer" by an unknown author, which was found on the battlefield at El Agheila on Dec. 14, 1942, can be classed with the poems you mention. I will quote two verses of this prayer to recall it to your mind:

*Stay with me, God. The night is dark,
 The night is cold. My little spark
 Of courage dies. The night is long.
 Be with me, God, and make me strong.
 I love a game, I love a fight,
 I hate the dark, I love the light,
 I love my child, I love my wife
 I am no coward. I love life.*

*I'm but the son my mother bore
 A simple man, and nothing more.
 But, God of strength and gentleness,
 Be pleased to make me nothing less.
 Help me, O God, when death is near,
 To mock the haggard face of fear;
 That when I fall—if I fall I must—
 My soul may triumph in the dust.*

ANOTHER BREAK: One in 10,000 persons live to be 100 years old. Six in every 100 live to be 75. Tall men live longer than short men. So states an expert on longevity. As my height is six feet two, that is another break I have had from an expert. It is the third. First was when an expert said, "Men with big feet make the best husbands"; second, "People whose handwriting slants to the right are extroverts." However, I am still suffering from many cruel cracks, such as that by a frank female who said, "Long legged men are poor lovers."

BRIEFLY: It was Frank Jeffares who said: "A woman is afraid of silence; when a man refuses to speak she doesn't know what he is thinking and she can't stand it." . . . for testing a typewriter, a Chicago secretary says the best "alphabet" sentence is "The quick brown fox jumped over the lazy dog." I don't think so much of this sentence. There is one letter of the alphabet missing. If you can't discover which it is in less than 30 seconds cease calling yourself an observing person.

PLEASE NOTE: When the Japanese returned to California, some home managers thought an opportunity to secure cheap domestic help had arrived. These ladies have been sadly disillusioned. Japanese couples in California are asking for $325 a month, plus room and board. Single Japanese domestic workers are asking $150 to $200 a month, plus room and board. Japanese gardeners demand $1 to $250 an hour. Several thousand Japs who are unemployed are on public relief in Los Angeles.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1946, by King Features Syndicate

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22—The job of a newspaper reporter is to get the facts, including the who, what, when, where and how, put them on paper or phone them to the shop.

We have scores of reporters with the American Army in far places of the world, but we have had no detailed information from them concerning the conduct of "brass-hats" who, in general terms, are alleged to have surrounded themselves with luxury at the expense of their commands and to the neglect of the enlisted soldiers and the destruction of morale and discipline.

On the other hand, there have been vague reports of such selfishness, naming no names.

For example: "One young officer assured me that his gold-braided commander was living in a sumptuous home, staffed by 32 Filipino houseboys."

This dispatch from Manila carried the credit-line of the A. P.

INASMUCH as soldier publications cannot be allowed to discuss the personal affairs of commanding officers, the civilian correspondent working for a private employer has a duty to get such information for publication where it will do the most good.

He might risk removal from his assignment by order of the officer thus exposed, but more likely the case would be carried to the War Department and the officer, himself, would be relieved and punished.

It is no difficult feat of reporting to call on the "gold-braided" commander and ask him how many houseboys he is using and, for verification, to make a personal check among the help.

But merely to relay such gossip to the United States on the word of a junior officer who might have been repeating gossip and might have had a personal grudge is just bad newspaper work and smacks more of the night club school of journalism than of the conventional city room.

Incidentally, the term "gold-braided" here is an example of the one-word smear description introduced by the jerked-English weeklies which have their hates and house-pets, the former commonly described as "pot-bellied" or "bee-tle-browed" and the latter as "fortnight" or "squares-shooting."

There is a suggestion here that the officer under discussion wears gold braid merely to please his personal vanity when the fact is that by regulation he is required to wear it.

AGAIN: "Another young officer complained of a lieutenant colonel who, he said, managed to wrangle two private homes on the claim that he had to have space 'to entertain distinguished visitors.'"

"His distinguished visitors have consisted of Red Cross and USO girls," the young officer said. This in a city where housing is at a high premium."

In a very short time any reporter who was willing to make the effort could have nailed down the facts as to this rumor. The best way, usually, is to go to the man concerned. If he is guilty he probably will bluster or threaten. Then you have him. You just make notes of what he is saying and tell him that of course you are going to quote him verbatim. Ask him who his distinguished guests were, and check him on that.

Ask him whether it is not true that his guests have been mainly Red Cross and USO girls. Describe his houses and his scale of living, state his duties, identify his unit of command and, for contrast, describe the condition in which his men are living and the nature of their duties. Present the facts to his superior, quote him, too, and report his action, if any. That is the obligation of a free press.

STILL AGAIN: "Another officer, in the Navy, said men in his unit were scandalized when an impatient captain sent an 80-foot launch on a tour of the harbor in search of the ship which was doing his laundry."

"It cost the tarpayers better than a hundred bucks just so that bird could wear a clean shirt," said the young officer."

Without the captain's name and verification of the incident this again is sheer gossip, no more excusable because it comes from the other side of the world than it would be if it had been turned in by a city reporter in which case the author would have been sent back to get the details that are drilled into every cub as primary essentials.

HOLLYWOOD, JAN. 22— I don't know any nicer married couple in this whole town than Teresa Wright and Niven Busch. They are so cute together and have such a marvelous bond. It's nice to see married people with an understanding such as they have.

Niven, who is working hard to finish his next book, "The Conquerors," has the first story he's picturing together, going to make independently with Teresa all ready. He's calling it "The Pursued" and Teresa Wright plays a Western, in which she plays a really dramatic part. No bread and butter miss for her. They are both extremely grateful to Sam Goldwyn, who gave them the opportunity to make this picture together. Teresa is going to do it instead of doing a play in New York.

LEW SCHRIEBER has been talking to Ethel Barrymore over the long distance phone about playing Jeanne Crain's grandmother in "Margarita." Ethel is in Chicago with her play, but she's read the script and is crazy to play the part. All that stands in the way is the rearrangement of her schedule, and it looks as if she'll be able to do it. Jeanne, by the way, was on the 20th lot Saturday for the first time since her marriage, for tests with Director Henry King. She and her bridegroom are living in the very palatial Huntington Hartford mansion. Hunt bad!

NICE TO SEE Ronald Reagan back on the Warner lot, make-up and all. Yes, he's getting ready to do "Stallion Road" soon, and when he does, he'll have as his leading lady that willowy blonde, Alexis Smith. Alexis seems to be the gal all the big Warner actors make love to on the screen. She played opposite every star, and she goes on and on like Tennyson's brook without creating any great amount of attention but always turning in a very credible performance. After all, I suppose it's better to be steady and sure than spectacular.

BRIDE AND GROOM, Mr. and Mrs. William Grant Sherry, are back from their honeymoon. I don't know whether his bride, Bette Davis, built him a studio at Butternut, her farm, as has been advertised, but I do know that she has been at Warners making retakes for "Stolen Life," which she didn't finish when she married so unexpectedly. Her next picture is for Henry Blanke, "Jealousy," only it's been renamed "My Confession." "Elaborate" by the way, is also on the schedule for La Davis.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Now It Can Be Told Department: When magazine cover beauty, Nancy Guild, started her co-starring role with John Hodiak in "Dark Corner" she was greener than little apples. Pretty as she is to look at, she hadn't had much experience, and her first two weeks' work was so amateurish that 20th thought they might have to replace her. But the kid pitched in, studied so hard and begged everybody for help and suggestions, that as the picture progressed she was turning in a very good performance. Now, at the end of the movie, she's so good they are reshooting her first scenes.

YOU'LL NEVER hear William Bendix try to wriggle out of his contract with Hal Roach, made before Bill became famous. No, indeed, Bill is grateful to Hal for that first chance and doesn't begrudge the percentage Roach, Sr., gets on these deals. Bill was at Hal's birthday party at Rebe Daniels' and there is a nice friendship between the two men. Now Bill is being loaned to Universal by Roach for a period of four years. The first Bendix epic will be "White Tie and Tails" with Charles Korvin, sharing co-starring honors. The Bendix role is a typical one—a wise-cracking taxi-cab driver.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: It is absolutely untrue Phil Terry has filed suit for divorce or gone to Las Vegas with that intention. He is very much upset and was merely there on a social trip. He wired Joan Crawford immediately: Rochester, Jack Benny's partner in comedy, will play a role in Red Skelton's first movie, "The Show Off"; the studios are bidding him mad for Katharine Brush's new untitled novel, which will appear later. Crawford's "Consolidation Magazine," Jimmy McHugh, Jr., dining at Mike Lyman's with Jerry Sullivan, the girl who introduced "Rum and Coca-Cola"; it is Jackie Coogan and not Jackie Cooper who is going into the automobile business; Buff Cobb, Sr., gets here next week to have a look-see at daughter, Buff, Jr.'s screen career; cutest twosome in town—Peggy Ann Garner and Scotty Beckett having lunch together at the Beverly Tropics.

EDMUND O'BRIEN and Peggy Knudsen are becoming an item; Roddy McDowall craves to sing on the screen and is taking lessons; the Andrews Sisters are doing an independent movie to be called "The Green Room." They are trying to get Jack Haley, Xavier Cugat and all the people in the show world to whom they have presented awards of the month as the best performers; Carol Lombard Lasker, who grows to look more like her lovely mother, Mrs. Bernard Gimbel, stopped in at the Louis B. Mayer party with Hank Greenberg. She says she has set no date for her marriage to him, but I reckon it will be soon; Gloria Stuart wears a red wig in her first picture in two years, "Love Takes a Holiday," a Joan Davis comedy. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Boston After Dark

IT'S THE RICH that have their troubles, too, these days of heavy income taxes. . . Consider the case of Beatrice Kay and the Roxy Theater. . . When Beatrice's agents booked her at the Roxy for a two-weeks' engagement with options in mid-November, they had neglected to figure out her probable income tax.

WHEN MISS KAY was playing her third week, the Roxy management exercised its second option and that meant that Beatrice was bound, as per her contract, to play six full weeks at that movie palace. . . This, ordinarily, would have been very nice indeed, as Miss Kay's salary is $3000 a week and she was within commuting distance of her home in New Jersey and had none of the stress entailed by hotel life on the road.

THE FIREWORKS started the very next day. . . Miss Kay's managers and agents started to compute her income tax, and it was found that the extra $10,000 represented by the final two weeks of her six weeks' stand would move her into a higher income tax bracket. . . In fact, that unwelcome added-two-weeks would cost her the sum of $12,000, the figures showed. . . Beatrice was not too worried, however.

SHE ARGUED with herself and her agents that the Roxy management, with an eye to the future and desire to play the small-sized star with the highest-sized salary in 1936 and thereafter, would willingly release her from an engagement which would cost her not only the $30,000 she would earn for playing it, but an extra $12,000 from her own bankroll. . . So Beatrice presented her problem to the Roxy bosses, with a request for a release. . . They shook their collective heads and said, no, it could not be granted—her wish for cancellation.

MISS KAY HAD STILL another ace in the billowy sleeve of her mink coat. . . She offered to play that final two weeks for nothing. . . Not even expenses, did she desire. . . There was a consultation, and at its conclusion the answer again came back "No!" . . . The Roxy management declared that it, too, had income tax problems, and that's the way it ended. . . Beatrice ended her costly engagement on Christmas Eve, after giving Uncle Sam an unexpected and very expensive Christmas present.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Jed Harris, who had salary-raising difficulties in connection with a recent show, is in "Strong Action" (as the boys say) once again. . . Jed, the producer of a play called "Apple of Your Eye," starring Walter Huston. . . in Baltimore it grossed $19,500, and in Philadelphia, the play is sold out solidly for two weeks. . . (All that is needed now to put Jed on the high road to a new fortune is to have New York approve the new Huston vehicle).

ASSOCIATED with Jed, by the way, is Ben Stein, whose brother, Nathan, is company manager of "Crescendo." . . Visiting theatrical folk are beating a path to the door of Villa Nova, Rocky Palladino's new Italian restaurant at Albany St. and Broadway. . . Mike Ducers, and Ralph Morgan, Neil Hamilton of "Crescendo," and Natalie Thompson of "January Thaw" have been among those supping at Villa Nova.

ED WYNER, operator of the Ritzy-Carlton and a gentleman who knows mass psychology and the public's expected reaction, thinks that Mayor James M. Curley at this moment is nearer and dearer to the hearts of many of the fellow citizens than at any time in his career. . . Mr. W. believes that a mass meeting to express the electorate's sympathy for the Congressman-mayor would pack the Garden with a turnaway crowd.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22—The John Garfield new baby was named Julie. . . What ever became of Wendy Hiller, who was so fine in "Pygmalion" when Leslie Howard did it in the movies? In that and "Major Barbara" she was an excellent actress of the natural or Ingrid Bergman school. . . Speaking of "Pygmalion," Gertrude Lawrence certainly makes yellow come into its own as a fashion bet with her costumes in the current production. That yellow satin evening dress has the matinee ladies drooling. . . People who never touch the stuff are jamming the bar at Gershwins' Restaurant on East 46th St., where the array of antique goblets and other glass has proven irresistible to collectors. It's probably the first time in history that anybody ever visited a saloon just to louse. . . Two old killdeer sisters, "The Bully Sisters" recently made a pact to press each other's hand each time a character on the screen uttered a famous movie cliché. When they left the theater they both had very pink palms.

CHICKIE is one of the town's new crop of showgirls. Not long ago she met Bob, a fellow who has been around Broadway long enough to know the score and a few other things besides, and they became a quick romance. Not the kind that leads to the church and the one-covered cot, but the kind that winds up touring the drinking spots all over the town and getting into the Broadway columns on dull days.

Recently they were whispering chat chat in a gilded saloon at about 2 in the morning when Chickie remembered that she had to call her mother in Pittsburgh. She disappeared for a while, and returned in less than a minute. "She's in," she reported. "She wants me to go over to her hotel right away. Will you drop me there on your way home?"

Bob said he would, called for his check, and steered his love out of the bistro. When they were in the taxi he said: "You're going to meet a guy, aren't you?" Chickie looked startled, made a try at denying it, then shrugged. "Yes," she said. "I am. I'm sorry. I've got another date tonight."

MIAMI BEACH, Jan. 22— Inasmuch as no one will be working soon, the way it looks now, I decided it might not be a bad idea to be a little forerun in the matter. Gaining the little woman's undivided attention by threatening to smash something if she didn't listen, I said:

"If I cannot do any work on account of I am too delicate to go charging across picket lines, wouldn't it be nice to be forced out of employment in Florida where people aren't so nuts about working anyhow?"

The little woman got that "here-it-comes-again" glint in her eyes, but I hurried on before she could interrupt:

"We would be among congenial people; people who look from choice and not because of the machinations of labor leaders. Wouldn't that be right? Wouldn't it?"

The little woman said she didn't think I needed any help from labor leaders in being a bum.

"This is just an excuse you are giving," she sniffed. "There will never be a general breakdown. President Truman will not permit it." (I might add that the little woman is quite a fan of President Truman and often says nice things about him, which practically makes him unique as far as she is concerned.)

"The President," she continued, "will do something. I wouldn't be surprised if he is thinking up something right now."

"Such as what?"

"Well, I have some ideas I would like to give him. I think he should order public hangings."

"Public hangings?"

"Yes, sir," snapped the little woman bloodthirstily, "shooting is too good for them. Besides, Justice Robert Jackson, before he went over to handle the war crimes trials, said that shooting is considered a very dignified method of knocking people off. Anyone who gets shot need feel no shame, because it is his fault."

"On the other hand, hanging is considered disgraceful," she snarled. "You scarcely ever hear any housewife bragging that her old man was hanged."

I AGREED that there seemed a measure of truth to this and inquired whom she wished to see hanged.

"You know very well whom I mean," she retorted. "Who else should be hanged except these labor leaders?"

I murmured something about a couple of her relatives, but the little woman is not easily distracted when she gets into her stride.

"These labor leaders," she said, "are wrecking the country. Everybody knows that. Soon there won't be a thing running and nobody will be able to buy a single thing, and I don't mean only nylon. My goodness, look at poor Frank just out of the Army, and with a wife and child and everything, and he tells me he can't even buy a white shirt!"

(Note: "Poor" Frank is my nephew, Lt. Francis Dennis Joseph O'Sullivan, Jr., but I am almost positive he has a shirt. The little woman is inclined to exaggerate on occasions.)

I ASKED the little woman why it wouldn't be better to hang these miscreants quietly instead of publicly.

"Because," said the little woman, "it would have a salutary effect, and please do not interrupt by asking me what 'salutary' means. It would be a lesson, that's what it would be."

By George Dixon

They'd stop being so fresh.

I assured the little woman this seemed irrefutable, and asked how she thought President Truman should go about it.

"Do you think he should just go around with lengths of rope strung over his up?"

"No," said the little woman, "they should have a fair trial just like all the other enemies of our country. But after that they should be taken out and publicly hanged!"

PACKING UP to come to Florida was quite a task, because the little woman has become convinced you can't buy anything anywhere, except at the general store in McLean, Va., where we live. So we brought the darndest load of junk you ever saw, including five jars of shaving cream, the little woman explaining that if I am to become a bum I am not going to be an unshaven one.

She also picked a shoebox full of food, which didn't turn out to be a bad idea at that. We tried to get into the diner at 9:15 a. m. and it was past noon when we got breakfast.

TWO OLD GENTLEMEN, apparently farmers, got on the train somewhere in North Carolina. Obviously some one had warned them not to flash money in front of strangers because, when it came time to pay their diner checks, they pulled out their rolls surreptitiously and counted the dough under the table.

When I mentioned it to the little woman, she said:

"Well, they'll have dough to count long after we are in the bread time. My goodness, I'd certainly like to know where we are going to find the money to pay for everything!"

This trip is going to be fun.

Correct Name for Divorcee

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: My name before my marriage was (let's say) Vesta Southworth, and after my marriage I was Mrs. John Hamilton. I am now divorced, and since I have a 3-year-old son, I retained the name Hamilton. Should my mail be addressed to "Mrs. Vesta S. Hamilton?"

DIVORCEE.

If you want to have your mail addressed correctly to you, you must decide to use the proper form of name for a divorced woman. The very best form, because it immediately informs one of your present status, is to use your maiden surname before your married surname: Mrs. Southworth Hamilton. Or (though this is not so good as using just your maiden surname) you may use Mrs. V. Southworth Hamilton. In other words, decide how to use the proper form for your name, and not the socially incorrect form of your first name after "Mrs."

18—Boston American, Jan. 22

THERE ARE TRICKS to every trade . . . and dieting is no exception. If you gals had sufficient will power of your own . . . you wouldn't be needing this 28-day-diet to straighten out your weight and wasted figure problem. You would be able to resist . . . when necessary . . . a snack here, a tidbit there, a midnight rendezvous with the ice-box leftovers . . . all of which add up to pounds, you know, that padding of flesh which beckons recognition in the most humiliating places.

It isn't the diet that's hard on dieters . . . it is the denial of the little extras which bothers the overweighted gal . . . who all her life has made a production of eating. She's considered the extras her private satisfactions . . . her humor temperers . . . her zest for life enhancers.

Which is just fine and fabulous if you are so fortunately and physically constituted that such indulgences don't turn into fat. But the mere fact that a girl in normal good health is scale-sad is conclusive proof that she is eating more than her daily activity requires . . . and that on her it would be no hardship to impose denials.

So it isn't what one has to eat under the rules of a restrictive diet . . . which is plenty in this one . . . that bothers the hefty maidschen . . . but the choice tongue-teasers that she can't enjoy and to which her alter ego has grown so accustomed . . . it booms rebellion and very often wilts the will power.

What, no sweets, the girl cries in anguish wild at the sight of diet that gives them only sparse recognition, I couldn't be happy without them. Well, all life is but a mental attitude. However we pose the mind to a given set of circumstances, so does it react. And dieting is just as much a state of mind . . . as the will to give us this or that luxury in our scheme of daily things. Once a girl makes up her mind to keep trim and slim . . . and is determined with a conviction that is honorable and persistent . . . she'll keep that thrill of silhouette satisfaction for as long as she's a mind to.

Nor do we say, a girl should deny herself sweets always. Rather we urge judgment in partaking of them. Let's say you don't have to pursue a full and rigid course of dieting.

Let's say you consider yourself pretty nice as you are . . . but you want to stay that way . . . although the scales show a few pounds increase at varying intervals. As long as you follow a basic food foundation . . . one that includes all the necessary daily essentials nutritionally required for upstanding health . . . you can watch your weight by periodic forfeiting of the little sweet things . . . that is, taking a small scoop of ice-cream instead of a two-decker affair with sauces and such.

When it becomes necessary to watch your weight . . . don't eat bread and potato at the same meal. Don't eat two starchy foods when it would be wiser and figure-wealthier to eat green and leafy vegetables.

The pastry tray and whipped cream specialties of smart restaurants are as pleasing to the tummy as to the eye . . . and sometimes mighty hard to resist. Once in a while, it wouldn't be too terrible to cheat a little and make with such upper-bracketed calorie cooking. But it's when the cheating becomes a regular habit that good intentions are tossed to the winds and the figure suffers.

Inhibitions . . . where food is concerned . . . are easily mastered, you know. So duck the dessert list now and then . . . and nonchalantly make capital of cheese and crackers . . . or water sherbert . . . or a piece of fruit or melon. Learn to drink tea or coffee clear. Once every two or three or four weeks . . . devote one day to drinking nothing but fruit juices spaced at three-hour intervals. You'll have sufficient sustaining calories . . . and the system will get a wonderful opportunity to cleanse itself . . . and the stomach will happily retrench in comfort.

In tomorrow's Boston Evening American, we'll list some simple exercises to supplement the diet.

Velvet Skin Cream Mask

NOW IF SOME LYRICIST had written a ditty, "Oh, Lord, you made the winter too mean" . . . he'd really have something. Take a day like yesterday. I don't imagine there was a single woman around who cared much how she was garbed . . . much less looked . . . as she ploughed her way through snow, slush and rain. It was enough she had to brave such inclemency.

Yet it is just on such a night as last night . . . that a woman can do much for herself . . . a ritual night in which she is certain to be undisturbed by visitors and to be able to have all her time for her face . . . and hair.

And the steam-heated bathroom with all the comforting warmth of indoors is a suitable sanctuary for work on the complexion . . . fuss with it to one heart's content . . . beginning with a cleansing routine all the way through a home salon treatment afforded by the facial standby, the mask. And as a fitting climax, an old-fashioned hair brushing.

"In" nights are times to give to the complexion that extra, devoted touch of loving kindness. And that's what a mask treatment is . . . that little something added that makes all the difference in the world in the look of the skin . . . in the radiant alertness of the complexion.

For the name of this velvet-skin cream mask, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBERTY 4000, or write Ruth Mugglebee, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FOX JACKETS are decidedly smart for spring . . . and this one in black broadtail is ultra-chic. Worn over a simple beige crepe dress that has shirred waist-line tuckings and long, shirred sleeves . . . it was one of the hit costumes in the Ben Reig collections

Citrus Fruit Juices Urged As an Important Resistant

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

BECAUSE COLDS AND GRIPPE are prevalent at this time of year, everyone is urged to give careful attention to the diet as one of the prime precautions against this dread winter complaint. Chief among the recommendations is the daily use of plenty of citrus fruit juice, milk and vegetables.

Citrus fruit juices are important because of their alkaline action on the human system, and over-acidity is generally believed to be one of the conditions most susceptible to cold germs. Citrus fruits are the richest natural source of vitamin C, the vitamin which must be taken daily to keep the system up to par, and to keep resistance at a high level. So put oranges and grapefruit at the top of your shopping list every time you market these days.

OTHER PRECAUTIONS

Aside from diet, it's important to stay out of drafts, avoid crowds, wear dry clothing, and get plenty of rest, to ward off the possibility of cold infection. If you have already caught cold, experts advise that you go to bed at once, call a doctor if the temperature reaches 102, and remain in bed at least two days after the temperature has returned to normal.

GRAPEFRUIT SECTIONS

Pare each grapefruit with a sharp knife, cutting deep enough to remove every particle of membrane with the peel. Insert point of knife at stem end of fruit, close to membrane that divides sections. Carefully work knife in, separating membrane from section. Then carefully separate section from membrane on its other side. Remove whole sections completely in shape and evenly free from membrane. Repeat until all sections are removed. Press out remaining juice and serve with grapefruit or as juice. As a breakfast or dessert dish, arrange sections on a plate around a mound of powdered sugar, or serve in fruit cocktails, salads, etc. Canned grapefruit sections are excellent when chilled and served the same way.

CREAM OF CHICKEN SOUP

6 tbsp. chicken fat, butter or margarine
5 tsp. flour
5 cups well-seasoned chicken stock
1 cup rich milk
1 1/2 cup skinned cooked chicken
Salt and pepper
2 tsp. minced chives or parsley
Melt chicken fat, butter or margarine, stir in flour, and when well blended, add chicken stock and milk slowly, stirring constantly over low heat until mixture boils. Add chicken, and season to taste with salt and pepper. Reheat and pour into cream soup dishes. Sprinkle chives or parsley on top. Makes 6 servings.

STEAMED RICE WITH RAISINS

1 cup rice
1 tsp. salt
1 1/2 cups boiling water or scalded milk
1/2 cup seedless raisins
Wash rice thoroughly and drain well. Add rice to boiling salted water or scalded milk in top part of double boiler. Cover and cook over boiling water 30 to 35 minutes, until rice is tender and all liquid has been absorbed. When rice is half cooked, add raisins which have been soaked in water for about 1/4 hour. Or the raisins may be added when the rice starts to cook. Makes about 4 cups.

FOAMY OMELET

6 egg yolks
6 tbsp. water
1/2 tsp. salt
Dash of pepper
6 egg whites, stiffly beaten
2 tbsp. butter or margarine
Beat egg yolks with water, add seasonings, and beat together until foamy. Fold the stiffly beaten egg whites into the mixture. Melt butter in heavy frying pan. Add mixture and cook over low heat, shaking pan until omelet is slightly brown underneath. Place in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 10 minutes, until dry on top. Cut part way through center. Fold and place on plate or platter. Makes 6 servings. Grated cheese may be sprinkled over the omelet before it is baked.

Girls Can Be Trusted

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I read with interest the pros and cons of GIs marrying foreign girls. I myself am foreign-born, a bachelor and a veteran of World War II.

American girls are beautiful and glamorous and also gorgeously dressed. What, then, seems to be wrong with them?

A niece of mine who still resides in the old country informed me that some GIs she had met over there had said of the American girls: "You can't trust them." Were I to judge the American girl solely on my own personal experience I would say that is quite correct, but it would be unfair criticism. G. T.

If I were you, G. T., I'd write my niece that to attach too much importance to what the GIs she met had to say about not trusting American girls. Our happy-go-lucky American lads have quite a line, you know. American girls are quite accustomed to this care-free quality in their men folk and know just how to take it.

I do not believe for a moment—and I don't believe you do either—that trustworthiness has anything whatever to do with nationality. It is an individual thing, not a national characteristic. Keep expecting to find a girl you can trust. There are just as many of them in this country as there are anywhere else.

Planning Wedding

MISS SHIRLEY WHITE of Wiscasset, Me., is visiting her fiancé, Capt. Roger M. Scaife and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roger L. Scaife of Milton and Beacon Hill. Between a gay whirl of welcome home parties for "Milt" as Capt. Scaife is better known to his close friends, he and Shirley are completing plans for their wedding the Saturday after Valentine's Day.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richmond Lane White of Wiscasset, a graduate of Concord Academy and the Nursery Training School of Boston.

Capt. Scaife recently returned from overseas where he served with the Eighth Armored Division and was awarded the Bronze Star. He graduated from Harvard in '39 and during his undergraduate days was prominent as composer of peppy music for Hasty Pudding shows. His father is director of the Harvard University Press.

Mrs. Harry B. Anderson

BLAZING OPEN FIRES and a profusion of spring flowers lent a cheery atmosphere to the pleasant tea Mr. and Mrs. Paul Clark gave over the week-end for Sir Humphrey and Lady Walwyn of England.

Guests included former Gov. Frank G. Allen and Mrs. Allen who was one of the pourers, Mr. and Mrs. William Aldrich, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Matz and their daughter, Mrs. Harry B. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Jenney, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Jenney, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Day, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kelsey, Mr. and Mrs. Orrin G. Wood and their son and daughter-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Holton Wood.

Mrs. Clark received in a modish black dress with orchid corsage. Lady Walwyn had orchids pinned to the silver fox scarf over the shoulders of her black lace gown and Mrs. Randolph Post Eddy, daughter of the hostess, chose a midnight blue dress appliqued with silver.

MAJ. AND MRS. WILLIAM WADE of Woburn are celebrating their golden wedding anniversary with a reception at their home this evening. Assisting at the party are their daughters Lt. Margaret Wade, A. C. WAC, stationed at Bergstrom Field, Austin, Tex., and Miss Faustina Wade of Woburn. Mrs. Wade is the former Carolyn Bennett Crane.

ROUND AND ABOUT: Mrs. Arthur M. Beale of Chestnut st. is spending this week in New York where she went to decorate the tables at the Ritz Carlton. Waltz Party and to visit with friends. Also spending a few days in Gotham is Mrs. Robert Burnett of Southboro who is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Leila Burnett Delano, of Fifth ave.

Artist members of the Women's Republican Club will exhibit their paintings at the clubhouse for three weeks beginning with a private view and tea tomorrow afternoon. Pourers will be Mrs. Charles F. Eaton, Jr., Mrs. Howard B. Clendenen, Mrs. Charles J. Innes and Mrs. Frank Sawyer.

Artists whose works will be represented are Elizabeth Taylor Watson, Helen Alden Woodworth, Mary F. Hooper, Maud A. Smith, Gladys A. Barry, Anne Frothingham Guild, Rosalie Y. Abbot, Nellie Allen Phil and Mrs. George Sagendorph.

The sponsoring committee includes Mrs. E. Laurence Brown, Miss Rosamond Coolidge, Mrs. Frederic H. Keyes, Miss Grace Hackett, Mrs. Avery A. Morton, Mrs. Marshall Phil, Mrs. William A. Rolfe and Miss Mary Evangeline Walker.

Army to Honor Tufts Economics Teacher

Dr. Lorie Tarshis, instructor in economics at Tufts College, will be presented the Meritorious Civilian Service Award at a special ceremony tomorrow, the First Service Command said today.

The award will be made in recognition of meritorious service as operations analyst in the A-3 section of the 9th Bomber Command in Libya, and the 15th Army Air Force in the Mediterranean theater from April 1943 to June 1945.

DROP U. S.-WARD SUIT

CHICAGO, Jan. 22 (AP) — Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan dismissed today, on order of the U. S. Supreme Court, the celebrated suit of the United States vs. Montgomery Ward & Co., which sought to determine validity of government seizure of Ward properties in December, 1944.

Parkhurst Joins Maritime Board

Richard Parkhurst, former chairman of the old Boston Port Authority, today was nominated by President Truman to the U. S. Maritime Commission.

He was on leave of absence with the Co-ordinator of Inter-American Affairs at the time the authority was replaced by the new group in 1945. He was originally appointed to the authority by Gov. Allen in 1929 and was reappointed by Gov. Saltonstall.

A graduate of Dartmouth College, Parkhurst served two years with the Navy in World War I. He served successively as secretary, vice-chairman and chairman of the old authority.

Wallace Asks for $10,000-Year Aides

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace told Senators today he needed three more $10,000-a-year assistants to help business and industry.

The former Vice-President appeared at a closed session of the Senate commerce committee. He said one assistant would be assigned to international trade, a second to domestic trade and the third to help small business.

'Crescendo's' Sorry Scale

By PEGGY DOYLE

Nance O'Neill, her voice still full of tricks, is nudged into a fatal heart attack and off-stage for the evening in the first act of "Crescendo."

It is the kindest thing the inept playwrights of the Wilbur's new murder-with-music could have done for this distinguished actress, whose name is synonymous with so many noble things in the theater.

For "Crescendo" is not only as far from O'Neill worthy as its collaborators are from that great O'Neill who has been called our First Playwright . . . it is neither actorworthy nor audience-worthy.

Involved in the inept mechanics of its plot are such competent stage and screen performers as Ralph Morgan, Neil Hamilton and Hugh Rennie.

The plot, it may be explained, has a psychological twist, a trend which seems to be reaching epidemic proportions this season. In this instance, the "patient," whose jealousy for his sister's skill as a musician has thoroughly embittered and destroyed him, is revealed as a poor man's "Little Foxes" character.

A little more skill has gone into the acting than into the writing of this character, which apes the sin but entirely misses the power of the Lillian Hellman villainess Tallulah Bankhead made so viciously, vitally alive.

The other principal characters, too, despite valiant work by Morgan and Hamilton, are feebly drawn and there is a painfully undramatic quality about the entire performance.

Miss O'Neill, as the musical pa-troneess who is, to use Eliza's phrase in "Pygmalion," "done in" her mentally twisted nephew (played by Howard Johnson), gives the part more distinction and drama than is inherent in writing. She is splendid.

Elizabeth Newman, Tito Vuolo, Sarah Anderson and musically-gifted young Jacqueline Hornet, are others in the cast who do the best with the least.

But the play's not precisely the thing for them or any other cast of admirable actors or for an audience who likes its corn buttered, its psychology scientific and its theater pulsating.

Ingrid Bergman In Bid to Repeat

Adjudged the finest actress of 1944, Academy Award winner Ingrid Bergman makes a strong bid to repeat her achievement as superior Mary Benedict in "The Bells of St. Mary's" and as the brilliant psychiatrist in "Spellbound."

Keith Memorial audiences have already acclaimed Miss Bergman's performance in "Bells," which today enters its fifth record-breaking week on Keith Memorial screen.

On Thursday, local fifty-goers may see her in "Spellbound," which is to have its Boston premiere on Low's twin screens. The distinguished Swedish screen star is teamed with Gregory Peck in this David O. Selznick production, and Alfred Hitchcock-directed version of the psychological mystery novel.

Lightly touched on in Miss Hart's Broadway hit, "Lately In The Dark," the science of analysis during mental illness is subjected to the cameras for the first time in "Spellbound." The film is based on the novel "The House of Dr. Edwards," written by Hilary St. George Saunders in collaboration with Leslie Palmer, and published under the pseudonym of Francis Beeding. Hitchcock worked with eminent English psycho-analysis before the adaptation was turned over to scripter Ben Hecht.

PACIFIC TRAVEL PLANNED
SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 22 (AP)—American President Lines will resume transpacific service within the next few months with four large liners providing 2000 passenger accommodations and sailing every 14 days from San Francisco and Los Angeles, the company announced.

B'nai B'rith to Honor Cols. Cohen and Abrams

By AUSTEN LAKE

THIS WILL REVIVE MORBID MEMORIES for the late German general staff, or what remains of it. For the lethal firm of Abrams and Cohen, 4th Armor specialists in mass mayhem, are being united again. Amos Lodge of B'nai B'rith, Boston, is giving them a big, appreciative shindig on Feb. 7.

Austen

The occasion is to do honor to one of America's foremost Jewish fighting men—Lt. Col. Harold Cohen of Spartansburg, S. C., that combination human tiger-man and soft-spoken gentleman who commanded the Armored Infantry Battalion under Col. Abrams of Agawam, Mass.

This will mark the first get-together of the famous battle partnership since the fellowship of the old 4th was dissolved last month at Regensburg, Germany. And though it makes history, I doubt that the top-ranking warlords of Naziland will be as concerned as they used to be, when they studied every little move and location of the ferocious pair. For in those savage days before surrender, the Nazi command had a slogan, "Watch the 4th Armored," of which Abrams and Cohen were the cutting edge. They had learned to know that whichever direction the 4th headed that was the spearhead of Gen. George Patton's attack.

The U. S. Cutting Edge

AS A CLOSE UP OBSERVER OF U. S. combat strategy I would cite Cols. Abrams, Cohen & Co. as having done more than any other to end the German war. And I'll prove it by geometric formula, to wit and viz.

Granted—that the U. S. Third Army spearheaded the American drive for the Normandy breakthrough to the final dissolution in East Germany. For the Third was always far in advance. It set the combat pace. And the spearpoint of every assault was Patton's favorite piercing instrument, the Fourth Armored. And the stabilizing point of that division was always Combat Command B, of which Abrams commanded the tanks and the infantry leader was Cohen. Q. E. D.

So now, amid the aching calm of peace, Abrams is on duty in Washington while Cohen is back in his Spartansburg shirt factory. B'nai B'rith hit on the happy notion of bringing them to Boston for a reunion-dinner.

In the broad saturnalia of warfare where human melodrama and sensational deeds were the common rule, I never met two men who more clearly fitted real-life fiction than Cohen and Abrams, the latter a Gentle, the former a Jew. Between the two there was a gusty comradeship and fraternal affection that transcended that of mere associates-in-arms. They vibrated to the same spiritual rhythms.

Like that time, last April 18, when they were directing an attack on the German town of Dornberg, a few miles north of Jena on the River Saale. It was not a pretty sight from the tall heights which ringed the town like a natural amphitheater, and when 105-howitzer shells from our mobile artillery battered the buildings to a flaming pulp.

For Dornberg's fate was typical of all German towns which offered resistance to the Fourth, and Abrams' contribution was instant and awful, completely out of keeping with the placid-passed joviality that you will see in their smile-wreathed features if you are one of the gathering to greet them on Feb. 7.

"Four o' it!" I heard Abe shout over his radio to his battery commander in the rear. And "four" was the word! Shells hissed overhead like giant squirts from a seltzer bottle, exploding in incandescent flashes and sending up spirals of smoke and debris which co-mingled over the town in a huge, sulphurous platoon. Fires burned roily as platoons of tanks moved like ambulant pill boxes and behind them Cohen's doughfeet filtered through lanes and underbrush like brown fleas in a dog's fur.

A Hideous Life!

IT WAS A HELLISH ORCHESTRA in which the stutler of machine guns and the crackle of Garands formed the melody for the bass undertones of the tankers' 40 mm. and 76s. The whole world within our perimeter seemed to bounce from the ground. What Man, the builder, had reared through the centuries, Man, the Destroyer, was undoing in a few savage minutes. I say it was not pretty!

This was typical of the day-by-day scenes in that last headlong onslaught which sent the German Empire reeling on its heels. For Abrams and Cohen worked with a cold, impersonal method, snapping orders into their microphones, while below us tanks and infantry fanned out toward strategic points. It was all over in an hour, with sullen columns of gray-green Germans trooping toward the rear, their stubborn footholdiness leaving the town a gruesome shambles.

It was a hideous life and I doubt that, beneath their hard-shell exteriors, they relished it. But they fitted more closely the ideal which Gen. Patton had of armored action than almost any officers in his command. And I recall how Patton had described his tactics to send his tanks clattering at 35 m.p.h. with "all guns blazing"—these were his words. And once, long before the team of Abrams and Cohen became famous, I remember Patton saying in a press conference near Verdun. "I can't always get my commanders to do it." Then he scrubbed his close-cut poll with the palm of his hand and added, "But I have two officers that do it exactly to my taste—A lieutenant colonel named Abrams and a major named Cohen." It was the first time that we of the 3d Army press had heard their names mentioned. Then Patton smiled grimly. "Neither of them will be officers very long," he said, meaning—No, not that they would be promoted, but that they would be killed.

But Fate decreed otherwise. Patton is buried in Luxembourg cemetery, of brilliant mournful memory. But Abrams and Cohen miraculously are alive to be reunited in Peace for the first time. It will make a famous occasion! Good job B'nai B'rith!

Farm Program May Put Braves Right in Race

By HERB FINNEGAN

It's been a long, long time since either Boston baseball club won a pennant, 1918 to be exact, but if the farm program set up by the Braves proves fruitful, this Hub of the Universe may see a Braves pennant before the Red Sox win again.

The Red Sox for the past 10 years had the players; the Braves haven't. But under the new set-up the Braves will catch up to the Sox, probably surpass them in the next three years. Here's why.

The Sox haven't much faith in their farm system. When they had a shortstop like Pee-Wee Reese at Louisville, they sold him to Brooklyn in time for Brooklyn to win the 1941 pennant. When the Braves had a pitcher like Ed Wright at Indianapolis they brought him up in mid-season in time to help them.

Col. Frank McKinney of Indianapolis explained it all at the "wedding" of the Braves and Indianapolis clubs.

"We had a working agreement with the Braves last year," he said, "but working agreements aren't entirely satisfactory."

Louis Perini nodded assent. "We've instituted a farm system that will cost us $100,000 but will pay us dividends in the long run," said the Braves president. "Under this set-up we can bring up a pitcher any time we want, from any club."

The Braves have 11 clubs in their organization already. The B-I-I trio of Boston-Hartford and Indianapolis already has been established.

In addition, they have Evansville and Jackson, Miss., in Class B; Miami Beach, Fla., Leavenworth, Kan., and Raleigh, N. C., in Class C; Owensboro, Ky., Richmond, Ind., and Bluefield, W. Va., in Class D.

"We expect to have 12 or 13 clubs in our farm system," said Perini, who hoped he could add two farm clubs on the West Coast in future years.

Perini expanded himself on the virtues of Ted McGrew, Bill Burwell, Bob Coleman, Chuck Klein and Ben Tincup.

"We're depending on reliable scouts," he said. "These men have established themselves. Danie Bush (president of Indianapolis) developed Tabor and Williams; Burwell developed Hughson and Reese; McGrew developed, or discovered Reiser, Wyatt and Casey who helped to win the 1941 pennant."

Perini went on: "I'm firmly convinced," he said, "that sports will have a big boom in the next five to seven years; our scouting and camp system will cost us $100,000 a year, but baseball is big business—just behind Gen. Motors, U. S. Steel. The GI Joe has learned to play and like baseball."

Probably not, but you'll get a $1,000,000 taste thrill if you'll call for full-bodied, rich and satisfying Ulica Club Old English Brand Ale. Costs more, worth it! On sale nearly everywhere. Adv.

Suffolk Downs to Pick New Racing Secretary

By JACK CONWAY

THINGS I THOUGHT you would like to know . . . Gordon Morrow and John Turner are in the lead in the race for Charley McLennan's former berth as Racing Secretary at Suffolk Downs . . . Morrow has been Racing Secretary at Pascoag, and was associated with Narragansett Park and Rockingham Park in other official capacities . . . Turner has been Racing Secretary at Rockingham Park and a steward at Narragansett Park, while he has also been associated with Maryland racing.

Gordon Hanlon

It is expected that the Supreme Court will render a decision next month as to whether it will hear Gordon B. Hanlon's case in behalf of the Aldred Investment Trust . . . Hanlon contends that his action in purchasing the controlling interest of Suffolk Downs for the Aldred Investment Trust was perfectly proper . . . Hanlon is opposing the action of the federal court which placed Aldred Investment Trust in receivership . . . If the Supreme Court consents to take the case on the record, it will be some time before there is a final decision . . . Meanwhile Messrs. Good and Proctor will continue to operate Aldred Investment Trust which in turn has the control of Suffolk Downs.

It is expected that with a 36-day summer meeting and a 23-day fall meeting Suffolk Downs will have another big season . . . The increased attendance and mutual handle at Gulfstream and Hialeah Park in Florida indicates this will be another big year for the thoroughbreds . . . Persons close to racing look for a record handle in New York during 1946.

Blackwood After Priest

JOE BLACKWOOD, Newark boxer, has agreed to meet Al (Red) Priest if he wins from Joey LaMotta of the Bronx in a 10-round bout at a Goodwin A. C. show at the Garden on Friday night . . . Blackwood is a finished boxer and a hard puncher . . . He knocked out Jackie Capparel, while he outscored Priest . . . Blackwood is the only boxer to win from Priest since the latter received his discharge from service.

Joey LaMotta, who has a boxing style much like that of his brother, Jake, says he will upset Blackwood's plans . . . LaMotta moves forward every second he is in the ring, while he punches well with each hand . . . LaMotta would also like to get a crack at Priest.

Lou Woods of Detroit and George "Wildcat" Henry of New York will clash in another 10-round bout. The third 10-session affair will bring together Dave Andrews of Lowell, a former All-American champion, who has shown great improvement in recent bouts, and "Wildcat" Henry of New York.

Berger Finished Boxer

WHEN AL PRIEST steps into the ring against Maxie Berger at a Sharkey A. A. show at the Arena a week from tonight, he will be opposed by an experienced boxer. Berger went 10 rounds with Beau Jack only to lose a close decision.

decision. He won from "Gat" Robinson, while he outscored Pat'sy Sataro and George (Red) Doty Priest, with only 15 professional bouts, has shown steady improvement since he was discharged from service. His most impressive win was scored over Fritz Zivie at the Garden . . . Priest is aggressive and a good puncher, and as a result he will win a great many bouts . . . It was Priest's aggressiveness and refusal to give ground when hit that appealed to Zivie.

Dud DeGroot Says O'Rourke to Play On Coast in Fall

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (AP)—Dud DeGroot, newly named coach of the Los Angeles Club in the All-America Pro Conference, said today that Charley O'Rourke, former Boston College star but property of the Chicago Bears in the National League since graduation, would play for the California Club this fall.

DeGroot, who resigned as coach of the Washington Redskins last week, was here to confer with officials of the New York Yankees, also a member of the All-America loop.

Weinberg Looks Good Winning

By BILL SMITH

Former New England heavy-weight champion, Bill Weinberg, 211, Chelsea, fought one of the best fights of his career when he scored a unanimous decision over J. D. Turner, 225, Dallas, Texas, in the feature 10-round bout of the Callahan A. C. show at Mechanics Building last night before 4000 fans.

Judges were Jim Shaughnessy and Joe Ricciotti and gross receipts of $6475 with a net of $1529 was collected through the windows.

Hard punching Art McAlpine, 182, Springfield, came back from a first round knockdown to earn a split verdict over Clint Conway, 180, New York, in the eight-round semi-final.

Referee Joe Zapustas stopped the scheduled six-round bout between Bill Landry, 166, Worcester, and Jim McKeagney, 165, Quincy, in 1:03 of the fourth frame when Landry's left eye was badly gashed.

Johnny Melko, 187, Worcester, staged a fast finish to score a unanimous decision over Steve Ketchel, 204, Fall River, in six chapters.

The opening bout, a wild swinging four-rounder, was won by Johnny Marra, 157, South Boston, when he took all three votes over Freddie Fields, 165, Chelsea.

Play Hoop Game At HC 45 Years

Thursday's encounter with Rhode Island State at the Boston Garden will be especially significant to Holy Cross' undefeated cage wizards, since it will be the 350th in the history of the game at Mt. St. James.

Up to this season, the Crusaders had won 184 and lost 158, so a triumph before a sell out audience of 13,900 would be especially sweet to Holy Cross admirers. The Purple first took up Dr. Naismith's branch in the 1900-1901 season.

Providence College, which faces Boston College in the closing set-to, has been considerably strengthened by the recent acquisition of Johnnie Sullivan, 6-4 center, who played a prominent role in the Friars' upsetting of the Newport Naval Hospital 63-55 last Friday. Sullivan played on Providence's last prewar team and has just returned from overseas.

The Rhode Island-Holy Cross game will start at 8 p. m.

Erna Anderson in Garden Practice

Lovely Erna Anderson, blond and delightful figure skating star, who'll be featuring the Silver Derby at the Boston Garden Sunday afternoon, will arrive in Boston tonight for a few practice spins on the North Station surface before she meets the capacity crowd in this 11th annual ice carnival.

It will be Miss Anderson's second appearance in the Derby—and she's not going to miss any opportunity to enable her to give the best performance of her career.

Arrangements are now being made at the Garden and the Arena to get in all the practise sessions possible. There'll be no ice in the Garden Thursday with the basketball session scheduled, but there'll be ample opportunity tomorrow and Saturday. In between, Miss Anderson will be able to adjust her timing at the Arena.

Another new feature has been added to the program by Director Ben Levis—a special half-mile invitation race for servicemen. And it should be a pip with the swell field that's been lined up. It will be headed by Al Broadhurst, the Rosindale flier now in the U. S. Navy, but he'll find the competition much stiffer than last year when he was acclaimed men's senior champion.

He'll be up against such standouts as Leo Laville of Pawtucket, U. S. Navy, and a winner in 1937: John Van Olden, U. S. Navy, and a native New Yorker who is reputedly one of the speediest in the country; and Walter Delaney, U. S. Navy, who captured the junior title three years ago. Others invited include Chester

Derby Tickets

There are still plenty of good seats available for the Silver Skates Derby at the Garden on next Sunday. They are popular priced at $1, 50c and 35c (tax included).

Tickets may be secured at the Garden, Arena or James W. Brine Sporting Goods Store at 92 Summer st.

Hobbs, U. S. Navy; Norman Chace, U.S.N.; Robert Mott, U.S.C.G.; J. N. Daigle, U.S.A.; Philip Cyr, U.S.N.; Mal Klausen, U.S.N., and Edgar Deane, U.S.N.

There are still a lot of choice tickets remaining for the Derby but they're going fast. Reservations may be purchased at the Boston Garden, the Boston Arena and at James W. Brine Sporting Goods Company, Summer st., Boston.

Yankees Have 20 Players Signed Up

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (AP)—The New York Yankees of the All-America conference had 20 football players under contract today with Steve Lach, former Duke back, and Harry Burrus, an end on the 1941 Hardin-Simmons College eleven, the latest to join the fold. Both signed one-year contracts in the Yankee offices yesterday.

Two New Clubs Join N. E. Basketball Loop

Pres. Claude B. Davidson of the New England Professional Basketball League announced today that there will be a meeting of directors at 6 o'clock Thursday, Jan. 24, at the Boston City Club for the purpose of completing schedule arrangements for the balance of the season and to adopt rules for the playoffs.

A revision of the schedule has been made necessary because of the late entry of Clinton and the Narcus Club of Worcester into the league.

Mel Ott Plans For 21st Season

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (AP)—Met Ott, who begins his 21st season as a New York Giant and his fifth as club manager, is confident he can hold down his customary rightfield post for "from 75 to 100 games" this year.

The 37-year-old Ott disclosed this yesterday at a news conference, adding:

"The right knee which bothered me so much last year is completely healed. I intend to play regularly until the old legs give way or unless players like Willard Marshall or Jess Fike show me they can do better."

The recent acquisition of catcher Walker Cooper from the St. Louis Cardinals for $175,000 Ott said, "makes us a definite first division club for he'll add from 15 to 20 victories to our pitching staff."
